INVESTIGATION OF SRA

J. R. RICHARDS, being called as a witness, after being first duly sworn, was examined and testified as follows:

EXAMINATION

By MR. PHILLIPS:

Q. Now, first of all, your name is John R. Richards and your address is Los Angeles?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Now, if you will, tell us that connecting link between your private life and getting into the directorship and so forth.

A. Shortly after the Governor was elected I first had a talk with Dewey Anderson who had been appointed Director of SRA relative to the organization of a Citizens Committee to investigate the whole field of unemployment and make recommendations for some scheme of activities. That developed into continued conversations in which the Governor was involved and the committee was set up and organized in March, 1939.

I was very anxious not to have large expenses incurred by this committee as I knew it had no legal status; that is, it hadn't been authorized by the Legislature and for that reason no particular funds could be appropriated to it. I set up an original budget that should not be exceeding $15,000. I have never seen an exact accounting on that as to what has been charged in but just at the tail end of it we kept within our budget.

It was a modest committee and we paid very small salaries to a few technicians and, of course, we didn't have large expense accounts or large traveling expenses. The committee worked earnestly. Certain members of the committee worked all the time and others did not.

It gave us an acquaintance with the situation in SRA. I was called in at the beginning—first, I refused to be called in to the SRA as to controversial matters in so far as the Director or the Administrator or the Governor were concerned, feeling that it might hamper anything that we might want to do. But ultimately I was called in and did go into those conferences so that at the beginning I saw that there was a difficulty, there were difficulties between the Governor and Dewey Anderson and in a nutshell, those differences can be described as a difference as to personnel; Anderson maintaining that he could not make a wholesale cleanout of the personnel as it existed, even though he put in competent people, without jeopardizing the service in SRA. It was a gradual program and could only be carried out gradually.

Furthermore, it was the contention of the Governor that the SRA was filled with Merriam Republicans, which was in error, and that those things should be carefully investigated; that nevertheless there was that continual, continual, continual trouble, the Governor agreeing usually that he wanted efficiency and that he did not want to break down standards, but that he couldn't see why certain positions couldn't be filled and the duties performed as well by one individual as another. So there was that constant trouble, the Governor then moving in and endeavoring to get control or to take control of the personnel department.

Originally there had been a man by the name of Culver that had been placed in there by Dewey Anderson who, of course, was loyal to his department and very largely carried out the orders of Dewey Anderson.

I know nothing about the relative degree of efficiency of the personnel officer except that he seemed to be working diligently and seemed to know personnel practices and methods. In so far as I was concerned, I took the position both with the Governor and with Anderson that Anderson was right; that no wholesale elimination of personnel during a short period was possible for the good of the organization and for the efficiency of the service; that it must be done gradually and only upon evidence that through a competent personnel department there was a qualified person going in regardless of politics. In the abstract, the Governor would agree to that but continually came back with the idea that it had to be done.

Then there was pressure on the outside from groups that were constantly coming in. Then he insisted on having Walter Ballou, who was one of his secretaries, go in in some capacity in the personnel department. He wanted him as a personnel officer. Anderson resisted that and finally he said that he would allow him to go in in some capacity under Mr. Culver.

Q. For a while in there didn't they have the difficult position of practically having two personnel officers?

A. That is the situation. Of course, Ballou then insisted that he had no authority, that Culver wouldn't do anything that he wanted and he was continually making complaints to the Governor about the bad situation in the personnel department and a continual row went on. Many of those I was called in to. It continued to a point where—and I have never taken any other position whenever there was a showdown than that fundamentally Anderson was correct. I am not passing on Dewey Anderson at all as an executive. It is possible that he had some weaknesses. I am talking of the fundamental problem that existed between the Governor and Dewey Anderson. On that fundamental position it seemed to me that he was sound. At least, he was standing for higher standards and so forth in his department.

That continued, becoming more and more acute, and you know certain things that have taken place. There have been, at the suggestion of some of the people in the Legislature, an elimination of certain people in the SRA spoken of as "Reds," of which we know Plunkert stands for that. Why a number of so-called—I don't know whether they are Communists or not, but they were classified as such and they were eliminated. I had some discussion with Anderson about those and he said, of course, that they were originally not his appointees, that he didn't want them anyway.

Q. My recollection is that Plunkert in particular was just forced on him, that Anderson protested and Plunkert had sufficient power, perhaps through some previous association with the Governor to get in.

A. Well, anyway, the situation continued until Mr. Ballou, with or without the knowledge and consent of the Governor, began to, what I call, build bonfires under Anderson. The usual method that is pursued by this group that now are once again working to get control of SRA would be to take certain points through the State and have some of the local authorities, political authorities, send petitions to the Governor, demanding, for instance, the firing of Anderson, the institution of this, that or the other, and they would come from all over everywhere, instigated, of course, but coming from different sections of a little different complexion, perhaps create the idea that there was a sort of a demand all over the State.

That continued until July of '39, wasn't it, Rube, growing out of two things that occurred: The State Relief Commission which the membership at least at the time that I referred to, Mr. Wilson and Mr. Melvyn Douglas were members of that commission, and they became very much concerned over what they felt to be the pressure from various sources to force purely political appointments upon the Director of SRA and felt it was inimicable to the best service of SRA and they wanted a showdown on the matter and they appointed Wilson and Douglas as that committee to confer with the Governor and they asked me to go with them and I did.

There was a long representation. The upset of that was that they suggested to the Governor was of such importance that he ought to give more than a casual hour or so to a problem of that sort, that he ought to set aside a day in which people who knew the situation and who knew the requirements of the administration of SRA be given the opportunity to present the whole picture to him. He agreed that it was that important and that he should do so and that he would do so. He named a date which was within a day or two when that would take place at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles and the meeting was held. It was evidently prepared, however, or seized upon by some people as a basis for trying Dewey Anderson. That is, they did not construe it as an open, honest and frank investigation of the situation on the part of an executive to see what was taking place. I know that telegrams were sent all over the State to certain people who were known to be opposed to the Anderson regime to be present.

Q. By whom?

A. Well, they were signed by the Governor, the telegrams that I saw. I doubt very much whether the Governor signed them.

Q. Do you think this was probably Walter Ballou?

A. Yes, I am told they were. I am giving hearsay evidence. I am willing to state the statement, however.

The meeting was held and it was what I would call a mob lynching of a public servant. The Governor, presiding, called upon people to make their statements. It is, of course, perfectly natural that those who were in the SRA confined themselves to a businesslike statement of administrative principles and needs and cases, such men as Dr. Chernig and Miss Hudson, Mrs. Hudson. And Freda Olson was personnel officer here and people of that type simply made a very careful statement of the requirements and needs of the department.

That was followed by calling upon people who, of course, to my opinion, knew nothing about SRA; very little about government. They included several members, quite a number of members of the County Democratic Committee of Los Angeles, a few of the Assemblymen who were anxious to have appointments in the SRA for political reasons; some men whom I didn't know had nothing to do with SRA but took a position against it like Bailey and a great galaxy of them appeared. There was a fellow by the name of Miller who afterwards became personnel officer. They all appeared.

Q. That must be Harry B. Miller.

A. Yes. They all appeared. Mr. Rubinow, who was there, I had asked to have Mr. Rubinow present because in trying to find out something about agricultural complications and general agricultural situations in the State, I had found him as a source of easy information for me and I found him very sympathetic on the good government side and on the matter of better utilization of the resources of the State for relief. I don't think Mr. Rubinow was called upon, if I am correct.

Along towards the latter part of the day I was called upon and if I am not mistaken I rather exploded the meeting. It ended with my taking the position that I was ashamed of the sort of an exhibition that I had been in in what I thought, I said, "I think it is a very peculiar situation in regard to our times and our needs that the older people of us like Wilson and myself and some others were standing for what we believe had been one of the gains in our democratic setups and the merits of the system, efficiency in office, and that we were fighting for that and the administration not only in the more important parts of the State, but the younger people were against it, like this Maury Adkisson." He made a spiel, too, against the Anderson regime.

The main charge was that good democratic people weren't getting the jobs. To put it very succinctly that was the question. I said I had heard no discussion of the interests of the persons who needed relief and I also stated that the problem of the State Relief had not been discussed. The paramount issue had been who could get a job and how quickly.

Q. What was the date of this meeting? It was in the Spring of '39?

A. No, it was in July.

Q. July, '39?

A. July, '39, at the Ambassador.

And when I got through with my statement, there was a bitter arraignment of the whole condition that the Governor felt called upon to make.

I felt it was a direct cleavage between the Governor and myself. At least, the Assemblymen who were there jumped at me very bitterly; such fellows as Pelletier. He rose and interrupted me two or three times and he said that when the opportunity was given to him he was going to tell the Assembly what he knew about me and what sort of a scamp I was. When he arose, the Governor was going to stop him and I said, "No, Governor, I have said some very severe things and give those gentlemen an opportunity to say them against me." But then he got his eye on Freda Olson. And it was just like drawing a herring across the track and he went after her instead of me because she hadn't put somebody that he wanted on a job. But it blew up. It was a foregone conclusion that Anderson was through and it had been so voiced. That was on Friday.

I went on back to work and on Sunday of that week, the following week, the Governor asked me to come up to the Fairmont Hotel and have a discussion with him, and I did go up there and Melvyn Douglas was there and he said, "Anderson, as you know, is resigning as director, and I have got to have a new administrator of SRA."

There had been a long discussion for an hour in which it was not supposed that I was a part of it or anything any more and he ended up by saying that he wanted me to take that position. I told him that that was quite possible.

Q. In other words, that you were to take Dewey Anderson's position as administrator?

A. Yes. I told him that I imagined that I had put myself outside the pale, from what I had said.

"Oh," he said, "I can square you with all those assemblymen."

I said, "I don't want you to square me with the assemblymen." I said, "What I said was true. I meant it and it was true and I don't want anybody to square me."

We talked quite a while and Melvyn Douglas got into the handwagon, too. His attitude, however, I want to say, had been good. He wanted the elimination of politics and straight administration of SRA and so forth. And they both began putting on the pressure that it was my duty and so forth.

I said, "Well, I have certain obligations and I don't want this job. It is a difficult one and so forth." I said, "Furthermore, I would have to consult with my partner and I would have to talk to my wife." I said, "However, I'll do this: I will go back to my hotel and I will talk to my wife and my partner and I will let you know tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock."

They said, "Now, is this just a gesture or are you really going to try to clear the deck so you can take it?"

I said, "I am endeavoring to clear the deck so that I can go ahead and do this job. I don't want to but," I said, "I will see about it."

And as I was leaving—I got ready and I went across to get my hat and the Governor said to me, "Now, I am very glad of one thing that you said a little while ago."

I said, "What is that?" I said, "Is it about Ballou?" I had made the statement when we were discussing it that I had nothing against him. I knew nothing against him personally. I knew nothing against his character; that, nevertheless, I felt he was wholly unqualified for the position in which they were trying to put him.

And he said, "I am very glad you made that statement about Ballou."

And I said "Why?" And I had previously sat there and when he kept urging me, I said, "You tell me under what conditions you want me to take this job. I am not asking for it. I will listen to your statement." It was apparently to give me carte blanche authority.

And when I got ready to go away, he said, "I am very glad you said that about Ballou." He said, "Because I would like to have you take Ballou as your personnel officer over there and," he said, "he'll serve you faithfully, faithfully as a dog. He will keep these politicians off your back, whom you don't like, and" he said, "you'll have no difficulties with him at all."

And I was after my hat. I just winked at Melvyn Douglas as we went by. I winked at him and I kept on going. Of course, that ended it. I knew then that there was no chance. So I heard Melvyn Douglas say to the Governor, "Call him back here, Governor. Call him back. You've lost him." But he didn't.

And I went on and went right over to the hotel and wrote a statement to the Governor that under no circumstances would I accept the appointment. In other words, I saw moving in the same situation that had existed there with Dewey. So Dewey resigned the next day and the Governor—I went over at 10 o'clock with my letter to hand to him personally and the Governor was off to make some talk to some Legionnaires or something and he was not there. But I left it on his desk with instructions that nobody was to open it.

He didn't get back until about 12 o'clock and Dewey was to be in at 12, and he opened my letter just a few minutes before Dewey came in and he had to have a Director. I understand he sent out and tried to find me somewhere but he didn't find me. That was that. He appointed Walter Chambers, Acting Director, Acting Administrator.

Q. You continued with your report and Mr. Chambers went on with the directorship?

A. Yes. I had about a month's work more to do. As Chambers moved in, of course, the things that the administration wanted done in SRA were done.

Q. I would like to get this straight in my mind. When did you become Director of Finance?

A. The 1st of October.

Q. Then there was a period of about two and a half to three months that Walter Chambers was the Director before you came in?

A. That is correct.

Q. But you had a good opportunity to observe his handling of the SRA?

A. Yes. He moved in carefully, that is, it is always considered when a man doesn't make any decisions and holds everything in abeyance that he is just being careful. I thought that was more or less caution that was taking place at the start but I found it was habit or a general condition.

Then I went over as Director of Finance. The Governor called me up along the first of October and wanted me to go in as Director of Finance. At that time we had on the tape, as you recall, legislation looking towards the control of the oil situation in the State, the oil bill was up. I raised the point with him that I had not been favorable to that oil measure; I hadn't taken a very firm position one way or the other but I had rather felt that the Independents were probably more nearly correct from the standpoint of the State than the other crowd.

However, going on that commission that would be that important, I wouldn't want to go around the State holding hearings on oil problems and he said, "You know it is a fact," he said "that that is important but the Director of Natural Resources will be the man that will be the Chairman of that Commission and will handle the matters of shaping the policies, that will be in his hands and you will only be brought in incidentally on hearings."

And I said again, "Who is that person? Who is it going to be?"

And he said that he was going to appoint Mr. Richard Sachse as Director of Natural Resources. Well, I know Mr. Sachse very well, and in fact I introduced him to the Governor.

I said, "Well, is he going to accept?"

"Well," he said, "yes, he is."

I said, "Of course, I don't want this job."

And he said, "Well, you have roasted me on several occasions because of having young men and amateurs in many of my key spots. Now," he said, "take some of your own medicine," and so forth. That was true.

And I said, "Well, I'll let you know tonight."

And I got in touch with Sachse and I had a high regard for Richard Sachse and his conception of public duty and his experience. He had had good experience. That is, he had had experience as an engineer, utility engineer for utility companies, both privately and publicly owned, and was held in high regard by all these men as a very efficient man. He had no experience in government and it is possible that I thought he would perform a little more efficiently than he has. But anyway, I found that he wouldn't go, so I called the Governor and said that I would go, but not agreeing to stay forever.

So I went up there and I had an opportunity, of course, as the Director of Finance is thrown in close relationship with the SRA, as he is with other departments, to see how it is administered and it was being very badly administered, particularly in the personnel department. Finally, I went into those broad points that mean so much in the matter of expense to the State. There was crowding in of appointments here and there, making of place. The personnel department seemed to be working in reverse.

Q. Who was the personnel officer then?

A. At that time it was Harry Miller. He had been put in by Chambers. As I understand, the proper working of the personnel department is to get up proper classified lists and from those lists certify to heads of departments upon requisition the proper people for the jobs. He used to spend his time in going out into departments and trying to create positions, which I held was putting the reverse English on it. They were constantly behind and the matter of papers going over my desk were so many weeks and months behind that it occasioned trouble. I found that the officers would place people in jobs and not put through their AP 20's, as that what you call them?—for months after they were at work. The fact that they got no pay during that time would create trouble and I found that the constant excuse was used throughout that that was the duty of the Finance Department.

Q. You mean that he would put people to work where there was no job?

A. Well, I don't know whether there was a job or not. They would put them to work, yes.

Q. Well, wasn't that the time they had the waivers that if the job wasn't created they would get paid anyhow?

A. That is right. For instance, Allison put 600 on here in Los Angeles County.

Q. With waivers?

A. With waivers, because we had a rule to the effect that if the appointing officer puts somebody to work without authority and the appointment was not confirmed by the Department of Finance and the Personnel Board, that no liability should attach to the appointing officer; he would get a waiver to that effect, absolving him from liability on that matter. The files were full of those. I would continually ask that the thing be cleaned up, set a deadline, and would have a meeting with Miller and some of those people and they would bring in their lists and I said, "Let's get through this and know that we are through once and for all."

They would swear that everything was all through and the next thing I knew I would have 70 or 80 more. And, of course, I laid that on to the personnel department.

Often I found, in justice to Miller, that when he was making these statements to me that they had cleaned everything up, that he thought so, but those people had already been appointed and nothing was said about it and the A. P. would come in after. And in most cases he said they should be done in small homeopathic doses.

Those things continued, irregularities were present until the Legislature got uneasy and we had a committee appointed, as you recall, before the session of the Legislature, to look into the situation and the Governor and your committee made some statement through Anderson, I believe it was, some general statement relative to irregularities and extravagances and so forth that existed in SRA, all of which were true, and we could have given him some worse than that.

The Governor then called a meeting and wanted a Personnel Standards Committee set up which would look into the matter of this whole personnel arrangement and act in a way like the Personnel Board of the State in connection with the civil service employees. It had no direct authority. It was another one of those extra bodies, but as I say, it had no direct authority. Dwight Stevenson was chairman and Mr. Mallory and Ivan Spurbeck and myself and Philbrick were on that committee.

The committee went to work with earnestness, with a desire to be helpful in the determination to do a good job. That was the temper of the committee while I was on it, that they wouldn't stultify themselves on something unless they knew it to be a proper piece of work. They knew that they didn't have any authority but at least orders which they asked by SRA, since they were created by SRA, orders which they asked SRA to carry out, if they did not carry them out they at least had the defense of resigning and they went to work. They had a very close view of everything that was taking place in SRA. They first went to work with the Director of Finance. There came up in a session of the Legislature the matter of appropriations for the remainder of the biennium. That was one of the chief items on the agenda for the Legislature. The Legislature, as I recall it, met in January, you will recall, January 28th or 29th, and we asked in the Finance Department that the budgetary requirements of SRA be submitted some time in advance so that some investigation and study could be made of the request.

Four days before the Legislature met, or six days before the Legislature met, I got the first intimation of the budget. I had had Mr. Ruble, who is an auditor in our department making some investigations, and they had told me just as hearsay from some of them in the SRA that they were operating on a $112,000,000 biennium basis; that their rated expenditures at that moment and their estimates for case load for the future would be approximately $112,000,000 for the biennium. So that in so far as making any estimates of what our possible deficit might be or the warrant situation might be, I was wholly dependent upon making some sort of a guess as to what was happening over there.

Ruble came in to me one day and he said, "If you are laboring under the impression that that $112,000,000 figure is correct" he said, "you're going to be fooled." He said they were operating way above that.

I said, "Well, they've got to get something up here."

We teletyped and wired and finally they came in with a budget which asked, for the remainder of the biennium, for either 105 or 108 million dollars, I have forgotten which. I spent perhaps a couple of hours running over the budget and the Governor 'phoned me wanting to know if I had it and I said, "Yes."

He said, "What do you think of it?"

I said, "Well, I haven't had time to digest it at all but I would be glad to talk to you about it tonight," and I did. I went over to his house and I just handed it to him and he looked at the total figures and had quite as bad a reaction as I did. It was terrible. And he said, "What can you do about that?"

Q. That would have been a budget for what part of the biennium?

A. For last year.

By MR. WOLLENBERG:

Q. That would have been really for ten months?

A. For about ten months that they were figuring for the budget.

Q. No, it would have been June 30, 1941, so it would have been sixteen months, seventeen months.

A. Sixteen or seventeen months. They were endeavoring to make a complete budget for the entire biennium. So we talked that over and he said, "What can be done about this budget?"

"Well," I said, "the budget is largely on estimates."

I said, "A lot of it is dependent upon the future. That is No. 1."

Then I said, "There have been various inquiries in my office coming from members of the Legislature and from people out through the State relative to the effect of certain possible changes in eligibility of our costs."

I had made some estimates on those and if those were utilized it was possible that quite a considerable reduction in the budget might be made.

He said, "Well, I wish you would have a meeting immediately with those SRA people and make an investigation of all those possible alterations and changes and possible reduction in this budget and then give me a statement of it."

I said, "All right." I got them up.

He said, "Do you think that a sum of that size is necessary?"

And I said, "No."

He said, "How much too much is it?"

And I said, "Well, offhand, I would say 30 million."

He said, "Do you mean to say that you could run SRA for 30 million less than they are asking for there?"

And I said, "Yes, and run it better."

"Well," he said, "that's a terrific amount, you'll have to show how that 30 million saving can be obtained."

Of course, the crux of this is the matter of the control of the intake. It is difficult to get direct estimates. I had an estimate in the matter of control of the intake making a saving of around 12½ per cent. They agreed around 10. We know now, as you gentlemen know, in your experience, that even that 12½ per cent was more too high.

By Mr. PHILLIPS:

Q. That is right.

A. And the matter of a ceiling for a budget, the effect that would have, was opposed by most of what we would call the social minded group of the SRA. I took the viewpoint, however, that we were not changing the structure of relief, and the matter of a budget (which is dependent upon a large family) was fitting at other social problems and that we couldn't bring in, under what is known as "relief" for those who were unemployed and who would be displaced, all our social problems and try to solve them and pay for them under that. It might be important to have a large family taken care of, it might be all right in some governments to subsidize large families, but we weren't doing that here.

That is what we would have been doing under those conditions. But, anyway, they opposed that situation, as you can see, and they also opposed the three-year residence rules rather than one-year residence. They called it restrictive; if we applied it to those who were at present on the relief rolls. Of course, under the law as it existed, it wasn't necessary for the Legislature to set up these sort of residence rules. It could have been done by the Relief Commission, but of course the Relief Commission were going to push the responsibility off on the Legislature. They weren't going to do it. Of course all those things were suggested and estimates were made and, of course, as you know, there had been a reduction of that budget from 105 million that they wanted, to 95 million, on the basis that their so-called business trends were out of line with what we were estimating in the Finance Department.

In the Finance Department we had estimated that there was going to be a pickup in business. Of course, we didn't know about this defense program that was coming on, but there was going to be a general pickup and we felt that our revenues from existing revenue laws were going to increase. But here was another agency in the State with an estimate of quite the opposite trend. We insisted that we would have to harmonize that. They agreed, finally. I asked those whom they had their authority on the business trends. They only had one and that was the Alexander Hamilton Institute, which is all right, but it is more or less in the nature of an educational institution rather than a reporting agency.

We had employed all the best reporting agencies. The Alexander Hamilton Institute is high class. I don't wish to criticize that.

By Mr. WOLLENBERG:

Q. But it is not as realistic as the others?

A. No. In any reporting agency in the field of industry, business and commerce, it is inclined to be six or seven weeks behind actual conditions. They report conditions. They don't go out. They catch the trend before they indicate it and then they will measure it somewhat. That change was then made, reducing the budget to 95 million. But the Governor then, in his message to the Legislature, said that if certain reforms and changes in the rules of eligibility were made, that probably a 30 million reduction in this 95 million could be made but that it would occasion untold misery and suffering.

Now, certainly I did not put that in when I made the report to him, that it would occasion untold misery and suffering. While he had asked me to make those estimates, you all know that I am accused and was quite generally accused of fathering an economy program for reliefers and furnishing a program of economy for a sneering outfit of the Legislature lending them food and ammunition because of the position that I took in regard to relief. That was on the inside. Charges were made against me all the way down the line, which I don't care for. The facts are borne out that I was only partially correct; that the Legislature was nearer correct than I was, although I don't believe the Legislature claimed they knew about this defense program that was going to take place.

Q. We admitted that we were simply trying it out and we didn't know whether our figures were correct or not.

A. Well, it worked out that you were.

Q. That brings us up to about when? Some time in 1940, doesn't it?

A. Yes. Then we moved along in this picture until conditions under the loose management of Mr. Chambers—I want to say that that management was, I think, completely in line with what I would say the administration forces wanted. The general conditions in SRA had gotten to a point where the expenditures were exceedingly large. The Legislature had passed a new law and also had budgeted the appropriation so that it was necessary for a reorganization to accomplish what was necessary under that law to take place July 1st. Well, it was evident to the Administration that they didn't have the—I mean, the State Administration—that they didn't have an SRA administration to accomplish that, so the Governor looked about to get somebody who could do it and Mr. Rubinow went in as SRA director.

Q. That brings us to a very moot point, Mr. Richards. Maybe this would be a good place to ask you: We had appropriated a certain amount of money for a period of about June and then divided into quarters, into the first, second, and third quarter of the next three quarters. The charge is very definitely made that no economies were begun during the month of June and the charges have also been made, or at least we have been told they have been made, that that was pretty much on either order or an understanding on the part of the Administration. Did you ever hear anything about that? Did you have any idea about that? In other words, why were no economies made during the last six weeks of Walter Chambers' administration, even though we had appropriated a limited amount of money which required economies?

A. Well, I don't think there were any orders given to Chambers not to economize. I think it is entirely a matter of his own methods of administration. He knew, of course, that in order to square his organization with the new appropriations and limitations, he has got to reduce his administrative force enormously and he didn't undertake it. I think that he was laboring under the impression that somebody else would be given the job and that he just let it all drift and go to the new man. I don't believe that anybody told Walter Chambers—I am guessing at that, but I am quite certain. I know the Governor was—

Q. Let me ask the question directly, then, Mr. Richards. The charge has been made, or we have heard it made, that the reason that was done was to bring about a crisis which might force reduction again in relief budgets to the ultimate embarrassment of the Legislature rather than the executive, as to the appropriation of the funds.

A. Well, I don't think the Administration knew enough about relief to figure that far ahead.

By MR. PHILLIPS:

Q. When did you resign as director?

A. I resigned approximately the fifteenth, somewhere around the fifteenth of September.

Q. I would like to ask you a very direct question because you know this and we have told you in your own office about it: that is, you were one man in the Administration, one of the very few men in the Administration in whom the Legislature had confidence. Now, you sort of stepped out, shall I say, not from under the Legislature, but left us with a very complete void in the department. Now, we would like to know why you left.

A. Well, of course, the statement that I made when I left was two-thirds correct, or rather, it was all correct. It covered two-thirds of the field, and that is that I had other things that were demanding my attention and that I was neglecting. The second one that was discussed, and I did discuss, was the fact that when I went into the service of the State I had hoped to be of some value to the State and not to be as an appointee in a job in a routine way.

I felt that maybe there were certain general conditions in the State that could be remedied by setting up certain forces of investigation, drawing together of information and analyzing it, making it useful for the proper services of the Legislature or committees that they might set up that would enable us, perhaps, to make a better machine, a cheaper machine, a more efficient machine. I wanted to be a partner of some such piece of work as that.

When I became convinced that work of that character was not very important to the Administration, I quit.

Q. The job was set up very definitely in the statutes and it was the intent of the Legislature that it would be exactly as you expected it to be. You were supposed to have very definite budget control and advice and a sort of clearing house for all of the financial matters of the State.

A. It is more or less in the capacity, roughly described, as a managerial capacity. The Legislature gave the Director of Finance power, for instance, to approve or disapprove appropriations, that is, expenditures; either for personnel or commodities. Heretofore, in nine cases out of ten, the Director of Finance would take a requisition and if there were unencumbered funds in the budget of that department sufficient to take care of that expenditure, a profit, whether it be for personnel or whether it be commodities. Now, I took the position that approval or disapproval was a power granted by the Legislature and meant to go beyond pure routine; that I was supposed to examine into the need and necessity. Well, in some instances when we have got large expenditures in certain departments we did do that but many of the department heads took the position that I was trying to run their department and that if there was an unexpended balance, for me to question the expenditure was absolutely wrong; that I was meddling into a matter which was out of my department and was purely departmental administration. There is some truth in that.

By Mr. WOLLENBERG:

Q. Were you allowed to set up the type of department you wanted? I mean, most of it is civil service in that office personnel?

A. Yes. My department had one position that was not civil service and that was a deputy and was filled by George Killian, the man who is now Director of Finance. It has long been the policy, as you gentlemen know better than I do, in this State, when one administration succeeds another, when the Democrats succeed the Republicans or the Republicans succeed the Democrats, every newly elected Governor feels that he is under obligation to find jobs for the committees responsible for bringing about his election. One way of answering that is to get various heads of the Personnel Department to create new positions and fill those positions.

Otherwise, our personnel, under our civil service scheme of things, has just been adding on to the personnel of our State. We have, I know, Mr. Wood, of the Legislature Council Department, research department. He has felt it very keenly. We have nowhere, any set up scheme of evaluating and determining the adequacy or inadequacy of our personnel in various departments. It is added on and on and on, but the difficulties of getting rid of anyone were almost impossible. Now, in my department I took it over as it existed. There had been added by such a process a deputy. He was supposed to be a legal deputy and it was filled by Jack Woods, and had been set up by the Personnel Department as a need and necessity. And the second assistant in there was a man by the name of Clifton. Now, Clifton, a good man, probably earns his money, but they had put him in there under the previous administration and the organization of all departments is such that there are times with people who, under an efficiency examination, could be done away with. I should say that there were a half a dozen in the Finance Department.

Q. There is only one non-civil service job then, and that is the deputy?

A. That is right.

Q. Were you allowed to set up your department as you wished it?

A. No.

Q. Was he your selection, Killian?

A. No. He was there when I came in.

By Mr. PHILLIPS:

Q. He was there under Mr. Gibson?

A. Yes. He was only appointed by Mr. Gibson shortly. Gibson had no deputy for a matter of months and when it became, I suppose, I don't know, of course, anything about this—when the vacancy occurred over in the Supreme Court and Gibson was to go over there, why then he appointed a deputy so that there would be somebody to fill in after he left if there was no immediate appointment, to take his place.

By Mr. WOLLENBERG:

Q. Did Killian, as your deputy, spend his time rendering his services to your department exclusively?

A. No. I think that Mr. Killian looked upon the Governor as the chief source of his responsibilities; that is, whenever the Governor asked him to do anything of any kind and character, even though it may be of a nature entirely outside of the Finance Department, he felt that he was called upon to do it. The nature and obligations which I placed upon the deputy were limited.

Q. Did he ever exceed those obligations and undertake other duties?

A. Not in my department. He did lots of things outside that I considered were political in their character and nature. He was running all over the State for the Governor politically, but in so far as his work in my department was concerned, I have a routine for him to follow which, as far as I know, at least I have been led to believe after I left, I didn't have the correct reports in certain matters. For instance, you know the Purchasing Department is in the Finance Department. They buy approximately $20,000,000 worth of commodities a year. We had a very simply operating rule when I was there and that was that one specification should be as general as possible so as to make competition as free and broad as possible, and that other things being equal that the low bidder should always be awarded the contract. That was followed right straight through; and that on small contracts of less than a thousand dollars they did not come over my desk unless there was a controversy.

That, I had Killian handle. If it was above that, then it came over my desk.

And, of course, there were occasions when they did come on to my desk, where we had, like for instance, this stamp matter, revenue stamps, around a $40,000 contract; and the matter of oil contracts, they came over my desk. Anything, by request, would come over my desk. I found no irregularities. I found that there were at times disgruntled vendors who would make assertions that weren't true. Whether or not the recipients of contracts on the part of the State should be solicited for campaign funds was, of course, always a point of contention.

By MR. PHILLIPS:

Q. That is an interesting issue. You mean that a vendor to the State was solicited for campaign funds, before the contract was let?

A. I never knew of anything of that sort specifically, but I found that there was a desire on the part of the politicians, or they felt that those who were the beneficiaries of contracts should be given the opportunity to contribute. I insisted that no one should ever solicit before or after, anybody connected with my department, to my knowledge.

Q. You mean that was a point at issue between you and Mr. Killion?

A. No. Killion agreed with it quite generally. It was a point at issue between all the politicians, not necessarily in my department. Now, for instance, there used to be continual meetings in the Governor's mansion or others, of following what we called the council meeting. As I say, the thing that caused me primarily to resign was because I am not particularly interested in the political welfare of an individual. If he is a good man and a good public servant, yes, I want to keep him in there if possible. But if building political fences is the chief concern of an administration rather than the good administration of the department of the State they are supposed to represent, and perhaps work out better ways in which to do that, if that is the principal objective, then I am through. So I quit.

By MR. WOLLENBERG:

Q. Did you ever hear any discussion about solicitation of funds from vendors in the State?

A. Yes.

Q. Where did these discussions take place?

A. Well, one of them I was not present. I was told the day after I left from one of these meetings that one of my deputies said that, "Here's a big reservoir that isn't being touched at all and those men should be approached." I was told about it afterwards.

Q. What particular industry or what particular group of people did that include?

A. Well, it would include anybody that was a beneficiary under the State. If you were buying $20,000,000 worth of stuff, you can imagine that that includes everything from a Mazda lamp to oil.

Q. All vendors?

A. All vendors. Some might have very large contracts that they were interested in and were in possession of. I had left the meeting. You may recall. I had left that meeting. I was told that Welch developed that. I called him in afterwards and I told him I didn't want any discussion hereafter of my department when I was not present.

Q. That was Welch that brought up that discussion?

A. Yes.

Q. You mean that that applied to all contracts of less than a thousand dollars? That that was a source of campaign contribution?

A. Whether there was a source of campaign contribution being neglected?

Q. Did you ever hear any discussion in those conferences, as Mr. Wollenberg asked, concerning particular groups that should be approached for campaign contributions?

A. Yes.

Q. If they didn't give campaign contributions, that might be a source of additional tax or a little pressure?

A. Well, no; I never heard them discuss it that way. The only time that I have heard groups discuss it, it was not in my department, I heard quite a long discussion as to why certain contributions could not come from the commercial fishermen.

Q. Well, that is what I mean. What were the contributions? How were they to be figured?

A. Well, there was, as far as I know, no precise method by which they were to determine those.

Q. Where did this discussion take place?

A. In a general meeting of all these heads of the departments and others who were asked by the Governor. That was preceding the last campaign down here, in November, wasn't it?

Q. The primary campaign?

A. The primary campaign. They always needed money for political purposes. There was always a demand on the part of the Democratic State Central Committee or some other committee that was set up. They never had any money to do anything with.

By MR. PHILLIPS:

Q. You mean these conferences were held in the Governor's Mansion in Sacramento?

A. Often there or somewhere around the capital.

By MR. WOLLENBERG:

Q. You spoke of commercial fishermen. They have to get a permit, don't they, for the quantity of fish they take? They have to report it and so forth to the Fish and Game Commission? They have to get a permit for their take, don't they?

A. That is right.

Q. Now, was it to be based on their fishing permits?

A. Oh, well, now, they hadn't been worked out precisely as to the amount. It was just brought out as a source of funds which heretofore had been utilized, and was not being utilized at the present time.

By Mr. PHILLIPS:

Q. I take it from what you say there was sufficient of that to make you feel that you didn't like the job of Director of Finance? Am I right?

A. That is right.

Q. Coming back to Mr. Killion. You didn't appoint him? Mr. Gibson appointed him? I don't know his background, but would you say his background and experience and ability justified his appointment as Director of Finance? Did you recommend him as Director of Finance?

A. No.

Q. When you came out?

A. No.

Q. Would you say that his qualifications and background were sufficient for a Director of Finance in the State of California?

A. No. Of course, he had had some experience in there and he is more intelligent than I think most people give him credit for being. I have always been inclined to grant to the man, in making an estimate of character, you know, that he knows himself to be to me. I am told that he, of course, exhibited his very best side of himself at all times to me. I never saw anything on his part when his character was not all right. He has not had a lot of experience financially, although when I first went in there just preceding the Ham 'n' Eggs election, there was a question as to whether or not the commercial banks would buy our warrants up through the period of a month or so there preceding the election and we needed financial assistance to carry us through. And we wanted a general agreement between the banks, both in San Francisco and in Los Angeles, that they would buy these warrants, that there would be no question of our having to hawk these warrants around the State in small amounts.

I was asked to come in, as Director of Finance at that time. A day or so afterwards, Killion called me up and said that matter was on the table and did I want to handle it or did I want him to handle it.

Well, I hadn't taken any oath of office and he was in it at the time and I said, "I prefer you, as long as you are on it, to continue it."

He said, "Well, I don't know the Los Angeles bankers. I do have some acquaintance with the San Francisco bankers and I can do it with them."

I said, "All right. You come down here and I'll arrange a luncheon and get you together with the Los Angeles bankers. You, however, will have to present the matter to them as I am not familiar enough with it at this time to do so."

And I arranged such a meeting and he did present it to them and he did a very good job. I was quite impressed with the man at that time. Of course, the statistics that he had were prepared by the analytical department, but he handled it well and the banks agreed to go along with this matter, although they changed as to points of interest, as you know.

By Mr. PHILLIPS:

Q. That was the time they increased the interest?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you get complete cooperation from all the people in the department? I mean, not merely Mr. Killion, but all of the others, Mr. Welch, Mr. Lanks, and all of the others in the department?

A. Yes.

Q. Did you have confidence in Mr. Killion's interest in the department, in his word?

A. Well, as I say, the responsibilities that I gave Killion, I didn't have things on his desk, which, if he followed the rules that I have given him, could get me into much trouble whatever he did. I doubt whether Killion has had experience in the matter—take one thing of servicing various portfolios that are supposed to be serviced by the Finance Department.

Q. Bonds?

A. Yes. In round numbers, about a half a million dollars worth of bonds a month purchased for the various portfolios. That is continually getting more and more and more difficult because of the lists involved and nearly all of the boards have adopted—they look to the Finance Department to revise their lists. Not much more had been done by the Finance Department than act as brokers for the purpose of going into the market and getting it at the best price possible, the securities that they had eligible for investment for their portfolio at the time requested.

There was a suspicion, of course, in the minds of many people that don't know a whole lot about the investment business, that lots of money can be made by getting more or less exclusive on that. Well, there isn't much made on that. I had felt that a more careful service should be given to those portfolios in the way of analyses in connection with watching maturities and the general income situation and the requirement of the portfolios in regard to income, that all of that we should go over very carefully and set up a program to take care of that by the utilization part time of Mr. Procoff. He was on the eligible list. We didn't need him full time up there, but I felt that we could use him to do the purchasing as well, although I had used a young man, or a man who was then over in the Fairs Exhibit Department, by the name of Smith, to do the purchasing. He was pretty market wise and all that. But a lot of the brokers would insist that he was favoring this, that and the other, until I had him run everything over my desk, although he didn't.

Now, on that phase of purchasing and service why, I should say, no I doubt whether you could get a man in there as Director of Finance who has had investment experience who would have some knowledge of it.

By MR. PHILLIPS:

Q. I think we are interested, as a legislative body, in the matter of ability and integrity.

A. I have no basis on which to question his integrity. I have never caught him in anything where I could specifically say there was a question as to his integrity.

Q. And that applies to all the people in the department, would you say?

A. Yes. I have heard some of the people. There were constant reports brought to me by Misphey.

Q. That is the purchasing agent, Mr. Misphey?

A. Yes. I never found any of those things to be correct.

Q. Did you make any effort to check up on them?

A. Yes, largely, they accused Mr. Misphey of having been a part of the old regime, rather than the new one. I knew this: That one time when these bonds were up, these stamps, or revenue stamps, that the question was brought up between lithographed and engraved. The low bidder was a Chicago concern. It was just a matter of formality that they would have been awarded the contract, around $40,000 worth. They had a meeting with Mr. Armstrong, who is the head of the Services Supply Department, in which the Purchasing Department Bureau at the present time exists.

Misphey and Armstrong were talking with this representative of this Chicago firm and they told him that the award had been made to his firm and the contract was just a formality of going on to my desk and being signed. After this conversation was all through, he said to those gentlemen, "Well, now, in my price I have made arrangements to take care of you gentlemen."

They said, "What do you mean by 'taking care of us'?"

He said, "The usual 10 per cent," which would be around $4,000.

And they immediately reported it to me and I threw the bid out at once.

By MR. WOLLENBERG:

Q. Was there another occasion, I mean just about the time you left, that you threw a bid out because you thought there was some contribution being made or something, in connection with it, some contract?

A. I reorganized the bid because—I asked that it be thrown out. I asked for a bid. It was on Mazda lamps. We have a provision in this State something to the effect that where all or part of something is made within the State preference may be given to that particular bidder. They were always identical bids. There is always a provision in each one of our contracts where it is optional whether or not we continue the contract for another year. And the Westinghouse and General Electric are the bidders on these Mazda lamps.

Now, the General Electric maintain—I think it is the General Electric—they have a factory down at Oakland. They assemble part of their stuff down there and therefore are entitled to preference. Well, anyway, the Mazda lamp contract was up in, say, either July 1st or August 1st, one or the other, and the contract was renewed with the General Electric, as I recall, and it was not thrown open to bid, although under the contract existing it could have been done. That was objected to on the part of the Westinghouse people. When they presented the matter to me, I knew nothing about it, nothing about anything that had occurred. I listened to a representative of the Westinghouse and I asked him to come to Sacramento to see me, which he did do. And then I asked for the papers. He handed them all in and I went over them and I said there was no object; if you want to bid on this, maybe they wouldn't be identical bids, we will get some difference, but there is no reason why we should stop you from bidding. I said, "therefore, I will open this and let it go ahead." I did that without any knowledge that anything had occurred. I afterwards heard that the local representatives, either in Sacramento or in some other place of the General Electric, had made a campaign contribution.

By MR. WOLLENBERG:

Q. Through your department or directly to the Governor?

A. No, not through my department, but they had made a contribution to somebody soliciting, somebody, I understand, by the name of Rose. Wasn't that the name of the fellow? Wasn't that the fellow who was a campaign solicitor? I think he runs a saloon or something there. Of course, when I learned of that, then I said, "Well, I don't know anything about this campaign contribution; there is certainly no obligation attaching over here, and we will have to declare this thing open."

Q. Was it a substantial contribution?

A. Well, I heard that it was either twelve or fifteen hundred dollars. I know nothing about it.

Mr. PHILLIPS: We don't want to tire you out but there are several things we want to ask specifically about while the stenographer takes a rest.

(Short recess.)

By Mr. PHILLIPS:

Now, will you continue?

A. I had supposed that every man in this State wanted the cost of work relief to go down, and also to accept the objectives which I knew Mr. Rebinow was working on, that he wanted to liquidate the department, that if he could get private industry to absorb all those people and say "There are no more" or "That there are so few that it doesn't pay to have a State organization; that he had accomplished his purposes and that the State had done what they had set out to do."

Q. In your earlier experience, did you see any effort on the part of the SRA to get people back to employment?

A. Well, yes, once or twice, the idea was developed by Chambers and continued under Anderson wherein there was a placement organization which was to supplement and work with the State Employment Service. The State Employment Service, I understand, now is much better than it was. And where we used to criticize the State Employment Service a whole lot, I imagine they had a whole lot of room for criticism on their side. They had classifications where it was impossible and everything of that character. But there never has been the hard headed attempt made on the part of SRA to drive towards placing people in private employment, utilizing the agencies that exist and working this out as we should have had. Now, that is our out. The more often you change regimes and so forth, the more difficult it is to get a program of that sort in operation. It requires a lot of work and it requires the elimination of possible chiseling and the elimination of all that sort of thing. I am not certain about it but I am under the impression that we will have to come to a central index.

Q. Did you ever go into the expense of that? We like the idea and we just don't know the details of expense and so forth.

A. No, but there is a way of utilizing a lot that has already been done. Those partially exist. I am told that Mendocino County or some county had employed somebody to investigate the question of chiseling even in the categorical and of the county and found an astonishing condition.

Q. Conditions of duplication?

A. Of duplication and fraud. The elimination of all of those things and the emphasis upon the return to private employment means the liquidation of this department. What is your case load now?

Q. Thirty-nine thousand. It is going up. It is rising again. It was down to 38,000 and it is rising now and Mr. Wakefield wrote me a letter a few days ago and has asked to come before the committee today to say that it is rising again and he wants the Legislative Committee to be closely in touch with it to check on the rise. I want to point out to you that in spite of the fact that the defense program is taking men constantly, the case load is rising and I asked him why and he said he didn't understand it. Off the record.

(Discussion outside the record.)

By Mr. PHILLIPS:

Q. What is your opinion of the Governor's knowledge and interest in relief?

A. Well, I should say that the Governor has a very considerable knowledge of relief and the administration of SRA; that its problems have been before him constantly since he has been Governor, and he has had innumerable hearings and conferences to acquaint himself with administrative problems and problems of personnel. It is my judgment that he is more interested in the matter of personnel than in the matter of proper objective in the operation of the department.

By Mr. WOLLENBERG:

Q. You say he is more interested in personnel. You mean certain individuals rather than qualifications or ability to do a job?

A. He is more interested in having persons in the personnel who will aid, and, in his opinion, develop the political fortunes of the administration.

By Mr. PHILLIPS:

Q. I would like to ask you a question about another contract that we have heard something about but have no details concerning. Do you know anything about a contract with the Calaveras Cement Company? What was the story about that. Or the Calaveras Oil Company. The Calaveras Cement Company was on another matter. I am referring now to the Calaveras Oil matter.

A. That was with the Land Commission. It is a simple matter. It is down there in the Rio Vista field. There is a gas field there that was developed two or three years ago in which the State owns considerable interest in the lands under the river and so forth, so that it owns about a tenth of the field. It called for tenders for State interests in the gas field and to a limitation of 31 per cent upon any bid. There were two bids, Calaveras and Standard of California, in which the Standard of California offered 50 per cent of the production as royalty to the State. Both of those tenders* were submitted to Mr. Soper, who is an engineer connected with the University of California at Los Angeles and has been utilized by the Governor in a lot of his Huntington Beach difficulties, to analyze the relative value to the State of California of those two tenders. He reported that the tender of the Standard Oil Company was worth over a million dollars more to the State of California than that of the Calaveras bid, upon which the Land Commission awarded the contract to the Standard of California. Calaveras seemed disappointed because they wanted some oil to run their plant up there at Calaveras and asked for a reopening of the case. When I was on the commission we had a hearing as to whether we should reopen, but we did not. Mr. Riley and Mr. Patterson seemed satisfied with the regularity of the procedure and the values that would come to the State. They owned a little acreage of their own in fee, the Calaveras Company, and they had asked for a right-of-way to get into that land of theirs and part of that, about six or seven hundred feet of it, would be over lands controlled by the Land Commission and the other by the Reclamation Commission. The Reclamation Commission had granted Calaveras a lease on a royalty basis. I don't know why they should grant a royalty for lease purposes because the right to pass State lines with a pipeline or something has been a routine. We have let many people have it for a small fee and they seemed quite dubious about getting it from us. The Reclamation Board seemed very anxious that we grant them this.

I said, "There will be no question as far as I am concerned about Calaveras getting the right-of-way to cross our lands. However, there will be a limitation made by the Land Commission upon the oil or on the gas which they may take out of this well and transport across this right-of-way. We will not allow them to take State oil or State gas. Whatever they own they have a right to take. They can have it for a dollar a year or whatever is necessary, because granted under those conditions with a severe limitation in that lease, that they could only take such gas as they were entitled to under a prorated basis."

Well, then, it seems that after I left they came in with contentions that they really were the lowest bid because they had a guaranteed minimum of 400,000 cubic feet and so forth. Well, of course, that doesn't answer the question at all, but I understand they have been at it. The Calaveras people came to me once or twice afterwards and finally the old gentleman who was at the head of it; I said, "I don't know why you people have had so many people calling me up, or calling the Land Commission about this. It is a simple matter." I said, "Whom have you employed in this matter?" He told me, frankly, that they had employed a firm by the name of Alport & Olson to represent them in this matter.

I said, "They have never been in here, never been before this commission or done anything for it that I know anything about."

I said, "Furthermore, there isn't anything that they can do that you couldn't do."

That is the way I left it. I understand now, they are raising—Killion called me up sometime afterwards and asked me what I thought of the situation and if that wasn't the best bid.

I said, "It doesn't make any difference. All you need to do is to turn the matter over to the Attorney General's office and ask him whether or not we have made a binding contract." I said, "That's the answer to it."

Of course we had.

By MR. WOLLENBERG:

Q. The firm of Alport & Olson, of course, is the one in which the son of Governor Olson, or Richard Olson, is a partner?

A. Yes.

Q. Did the Governor, himself, make any representations in regard to this contract or deal?

A. He appeared at the time we had the hearing.

Q. What for? On behalf of Calaveras?

A. Apparently not. He said he just wanted to see our procedure and to listen to our handling of this matter.

Q. Did he express himself on the subject?

A. No, only the award was made right there before him and he told me he didn't see how we could do otherwise.

Q. He didn't ask for a reopening of the matter?

A. No. Of course, I do say this, knowing the personnel of SRA as I do, and what is taking place, that I can see the appointment of the present director or administrator as being a move to return into key places the very people who had cost the State and wasted so much of the State's money heretofore. The same gang is being brought back. It is a travesty on public service. If we are going to have the Ballous and the Estells and all of that crowd brought back in there to administer one of the most important functions of the State —

By MR. WOLLENBERG:

Q. Do you know where Estell is now?

A. No.

Q. You didn't hear that he was Assistant Secretary of the State Board of Health?

A. Well, you know the minute they have a new head of a department they establish their— I had supposed you knew that there was some scheme of things in the administration of the State whereby the constituted authorities of the State determine where the head of that organization should be. Hadn't you supposed so? Well, now, apparently whenever there is a new man appointed to the head of anything, why the head office is wherever he chooses to be. If he lives in Los Angeles, he wants it down here. If he lives in San Francisco, he wants it up there.

Q. The Legislature thought a great many times, and several times has expressed itself on the subject, that that was the case, but it then begins to slip away again. Mr. Irving seems to have had several headquarters but none at which he lived so that he could draw his per diem. We understand that Mr. Armstrong, the assistant in that department, also is rather a floating gentleman. Did you know that?

A. I didn't know in regard to it. Didn't he live there? He seems to know everybody.

Q. He doesn't spend much time on real estate matters, I understand.

A. Oh, he is a political solicitor.

Q. What does he do in that regard?

A. Well, he is one of the little fellows that has to go about and see that they get enough money to keep the political organizations going.

By MR. WOLLENBERG:

Q. Does he collect from State employees?

A. Yes.

Q. Did he do that in the SRA? I mean, at one time?

A. Not to my knowledge; that I don't know.

By MR. PHILLIPS:

Q. Did he collect from you?

A. Yes.

By MR. WOLLENBERG:

Q. Was it on a percentage basis of salary?

A. Yes; 10 per cent.

Q. 10 per cent of the salary?

A. Yes.

Q. He would collect monthly?

A. Yes.

Q. From your pay check?

A. Well, they got out of it this way: I don't think they all paid it but they could or could not, pay it into what was known as the Democrat Associates.

Q. You don't know, though, whether there was any Hatch Act violations on file there on the part of SRA, or attempted ones?

A. No, I don't think there was. They were pretty careful on that. I don't know what they did with the money. When Rubinow was busy eliminating a lot of those political pabooks from the SRA, they were busy giving those jobs over to the Democratic organization. I'd thought that was all right, he said, because he didn't have anything to do with that. The administration of SRA has been so important in the State and means so much, you know it makes a difference between our running on a surplus and running in the red, and I can't understand why any administration shouldn't want it very carefully administered.

The Governor asked me if, if there is no increase in revenue, will you be able to sell our warrants even of this biennium and I said, "Yes."

Well, the Governor objected. He took me to task for that statement.

I said, "I don't understand, Governor, why you are objecting. That is the truth." I said, "Members of the Legislature know that just as well as I do." I said, "They have their sources of information. They can ask any commercial banker as well as I can." I said, "The commercial bankers will tell them if our deficit doesn't go beyond a certain point they will continue to buy our warrants and our deficits will not go beyond that point at our present rate of expenditures."

Well, he said "that statement of itself will preclude the possibility of getting through new revenue legislation."

I said, "I don't understand what you think I should do."

He said, "You could equivocate."

Well, had I equivocated there wouldn't be a member of the Legislature who wouldn't have known it immediately. If I had said, "I don't know," or something of that sort, they would have said, "Couldn't you ask and determine quickly enough?" That was one point. The other thing was that he felt that the financial program was wrong; the situation was, of course, that our deficit would not reach a point where we wouldn't have sale of our warrants and the second was that I took the position with him all the time that we ought not to expect the Legislature to give us revenue measures that would liquidate our deficit in his term of office; that it had taken us ten years to accumulate that deficit and to do away with it in two or three years meant revenue laws of such a severe character that it would simply invite opposition and would be impossible to pass.

He said, "How long should we take?"

"Well," I said, "It has taken us ten years to accumulate this deficit. Why not spread our liquidation over a period of ten years?"

He objected to that very fundamentally. I don't know why.

I had a different opinion. I had an idea that a Director of Finance, if asked to prepare and make recommendations relative to revenue, he should make it on his own judgment and not accept absolute orders from the Governor as to what should be done; that, I never did do, and, of course, wouldn't do. I understand now that they have gotten quite an economy idea.

By MR. PHILLIPS:

Q. Yes, we have been reading the papers, too. We gather that the administration has joined the economy bloc.

A. I don't see how this Legislature—of course, if this administration had left Sid in there and kept you fellows lulled in peace and had continued in the administration it would have gotten by the next session of the Legislature and then if they had kicked you out that would have been the procedure.

MR. PHILLIPS:

I believe that is all.

MESSAGE FROM THE GOVERNOR

The following message from the Governor was received and read:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, JANUARY 7, 1941

To the Members of the Senate and Assembly of the State of California.

In accordance with the provisions of Section 1 of Article VII of the Constitution of California, I hereby transmit to you a report of the cases of pardon, commutation of sentence and reprieve issued by me from JANUARY 2, 1939, to JANUARY 1, 1941.

You will note that I have granted 75 pardons, 49 commutations of sentence and 56 reprieves. This represents a reasonable middle ground between a leniency such as 1933-1935 when 267 pardons and restoration of citizenship, 39 commutations and 68 reprieves were granted, and the biennium of 1937-1939 when only 48 pardons, 21 commutations of sentence and 18 reprieves were granted.

I have adopted as a policy the reference of every application of executive clemency submitted to my office to the Advisory Pardon Board for a thorough investigation, consideration and a recommendation to me. As a result of this policy, there have been filed with my office and, therefore, with the Advisory Pardon Board a total of 621 applications. A recapitulation submitted to me by the Advisory Pardon Board indicates that I have followed its recommendation in approximately 95 per cent of the cases.

Respectfully submitted,

CLEMENT L. OLSON
Governor of California

RECESS

At 11.40 a.m., on motion of Senator Phillips, the Senate recessed for five minutes to hear from the Hon. William F. Gibbs, member of the Illinois State Legislature.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received and read, and on motion of Senator Phillips, ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, LEGAL DEPARTMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, January 6, 1941

*Honorable John Phillips, State Senator, Thirty-seventh District
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

DEAR SIR: I have before me your letter of December 14th in which you ask for our interpretation of Section 39 of the Unemployment Insurance Act with regard to the allowance of a merit rating reduction to California employers who have had the required employment experience and whose accounts show an excess of contributions paid in their own behalf over benefits paid to their employees or chargeable to them sufficient to constitute a reserve equal to the percentages of their annual total taxable pay rolls as prescribed in the section.

The question whether, under the provisions of said Section 39 of the act, an employer must have paid pay roll taxes under the act for five years in order to qualify for merit rating consideration is not wholly free from doubt.

Section 39 of the act, as amended in 1939, reads:

"The commission shall immediately begin to classify and shall continue at all times hereafter to classify employers in accordance with the actual experience with regard to the contributions which they have paid in their own behalf and the benefits which the Unemployment Fund has paid to their employees, or to employees whose benefits are charged against such employers. Commencing January 1, 1941, and continuing thereafter, if it appears in the accounts established and kept as provided below, that an employer shows an excess of contributions paid in his own behalf over benefits paid to his employees or chargeable to him, sufficient to constitute a reserve equal to $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent or more of the average of his annual total taxable pay rolls for the three preceding years, or the five preceding years, whichever is higher, his rate of contribution shall be reduced * * *."

Under the provisions of the Federal law, a credit is allowed on the amount required to be paid to the Federal Government as pay roll taxes of employers subject to the Federal act for those employers who are granted a reduction in pay roll tax rates as a result of merit rating in accordance with a State act which has been approved in this respect by the Social Security Board.

Section 1602 of the Internal Revenue Code in effect provides that no reduced rate of contribution will be permitted to a person subject to the Federal Social Security Act whose account has not been subject to benefit charges for at least three consecutive years immediately preceding the computation date for determining merit rating under a State law.

I am advised that the California act has not yet been approved by the Federal board in respect to its merit rating provision.

It appears, however, that if our California act can be interpreted as requiring only three years of contribution experience without a requirement of a period of three years of benefit payments or benefit charges, then the provisions of Section 39 of the California act are not in accord with the requirements of Section 1602 of the Internal Revenue Code. California employers who are also subject to the Federal act and who have had five years' experience in the payment of pay roll contributions would necessarily have had at least three years of benefit charging experience, and in this respect such employers would apparently meet the requirements of Section 1602 of the Internal Revenue Code.

I would call your attention, however, to the fact that there are many thousands of employers in this State who are subject to the California act but who are not required to pay pay roll taxes under the Federal act. I refer to those employers who have less than eight persons in their employ for the required period. The contributions paid by employers of this latter class and by their employees are paid into the same pooled fund as are the contributions of employers subject to the Federal act. If Section 39 of our State act can be interpreted as not requiring a full five years' contribution experience, then there may be serious question whether the Social Security Board would approve the merit rating provisions of the California act.

I am advised that there are 11 States, including Hawaii, whose laws contain the same provision as is found in Section 39 of our State act, to the effect that in determining excess of contributions paid by an employer over benefits paid to his employees or chargeable to him, the "average of his annual total taxable pay rolls for the three preceding years, or the five preceding years, whichever is higher" shall be used. We received advices from eight of those States from which it appears that in at least half of the eight States the phrase just quoted for determining the average annual pay rolls is interpreted as permitting pay rolls for three years to be used where five years of pay roll experience has not been had.

The laws of each of the States referred to, however, require at least three years of benefit experience, and in this respect they comply with the requirements of Sec. tion 1602 of the Internal Revenue Code. I am also advised that California is the only State whose act does not specifically require three years of benefit experience.

I refer to the advices received from those eight States for the purpose of showing that different State authorities have placed different interpretations upon the three or five-year provision in their laws.

I am of the opinion that so long as Section 39 of the California act reads as it now reads, the safer and more logical interpretation of the provision in question is that at least five years of contribution experience is required to entitle an employer to merit rating consideration, in order to determine the ratio by reference to the higher of the two periods. Such an interpretation would more nearly comply with the requirements of Section 1602 of the Internal Revenue Code. I do believe, however, it would be advisable to amend Section 39 of our State act to specifically require three years' benefit experience and thus bring our law in clear accord with the Federal act in this regard, and at the same time the section could be further amended to remove any ambiguity with respect to the three years or the five years of average annual pay roll experience.

Very truly yours,

EARL WARREN, Attorney General
By JOHN J. DAREY, Deputy

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communications were presented by Senator McCormack, and ordered printed in the Journal:

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY
WASHINGTON, November 29, 1940

The Honorable, The President, The White House

MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT:

Transmitted herewith is a memorandum from the Director of the Census inclosing a tabulation giving the population of each State on April 1, 1940, as ascertained under the Sixteenth Decennial Census of the United States. This tabulation was prepared in compliance with the provisions of Section 2 of the Act of June 18, 1929, under which the Sixteenth Decennial Census was taken. The tabulation also gives the number of Representatives to which each State will be entitled if the present number of Representatives (435) are apportioned by the method of major fractions, which was the method used in the last preceding apportionment, and also by the method of equal proportions.

The tabulation of total population by States for purposes of apportionment does not show any "Indians not taxed" as all Indians are now subject to Federal taxation.

You will recall that by the provisions of Section 22 of the Decennial Census Act of June 18, 1929, as amended by the Act of April 25, 1940, the President is required to transmit this information to the Seventy-seventh Congress during the first week of the first regular session.

There is also inclosed a table showing the gain or loss in the total population of each State between 1930 and 1940.

Sincerely yours,

JESSE H. JONES
Secretary of Commerce

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE, BUREAU OF THE CENSUS
WASHINGTON, November 28, 1940

Memorandum

To: Secretary of Commerce
From: Director of the Census
Subject: Population of the United States for the apportionment of Representatives

In compliance with the provisions of Section 2 of the Act of June 18, 1929, I transmit herewith a tabulation showing the population of each State on April 1, 1940, as ascertained under the Sixteenth Decennial Census of the United States. The tabulation (Table 1) also gives the number of Representatives to which each State will be entitled if the existing number of Representatives are apportioned by the method of major fractions, which was the method used in the last preceding apportionment, and also by the method of equal proportions. This is the information which the President is required to transmit to the Seventy-seventh Congress during the first week of the first regular session in compliance with Section 22 (a) of the Act of June 18, 1929, as amended by the Act of April 25, 1940 (Pub. No. 481—Seventy-sixth Congress).

The tabulation of total population by States for apportionment purposes does not show any "Indians not taxed" as all Indians are now subject to Federal taxation.

The Sixteenth Decennial Census reveals important internal shifts in population that have taken place during the past decade. (See Table 2.) Although the westward movement has continued and is reflected in an increased proportion of the population in the Pacific Coast and Mountain States, the trend long established in the United States of migration from rural to urban areas has been slackened. For the first decade since 1830 the proportion of the population residing in urban areas has failed to increase markedly. Consequently, the more rural southern States have increased at a more rapid rate than the more industrial northern States. Actual losses in population were found in some of the midwestern States affected seriously by the drought. These shifts in population are reflected in the new apportionment.

COMMUNICATION

The following communication was presented by the Secretary of the Senate, and ordered printed in the Journal:

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, January 6, 1941

*Mr. Joseph A. Beck, Secretary
Senate, California Legislature, Sacramento, California*

DEAR SIR: Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of December 6, 1940, with which you inclosed a copy of Senate Joint Resolution No. 2, regarding the procurement of woolen materials by this department.

At the present time blankets, woolen, are being purchased f.o.b. point of manufacture. Two Pacific Coast mills now have contracts for the manufacture of this item.

The procurement of woolen cloth is being made f.o.b. Philadelphia Quartermaster Depot, for inspection and shrinkage.

Consideration is being given to asking for bids for woolen cloth either f.o.b. Philadelphia or f.o.b. San Francisco, this in order to place the West Coast contractors on an equal bidding basis, as far as freight rates are concerned, with eastern manufacturers.

It is hoped to place this scheme into effect on the next purchase of woolen cloth.

Sincerely yours,

HENRY L. STIMSON, Secretary of War

Mr. Spears presently resides at Grapevine, Kern County, and operates several businesses in Bakersfield, including a liquid gas company and a realty and insurance company.

He is a member of the Elks Lodge and a Thirty-second Degree Mason.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Metzger:

Senate Resolution No. 25

WHEREAS, The Fish and Game Commission is authorized by law to acquire, and prepare for use by the public, public shooting grounds; and

WHEREAS, Hunting for wild water fowl is a popular sport of the people of this State, but a great many people are unable to or do not belong to a private shooting club; and

WHEREAS, The available shooting grounds for water fowl hunting are practically all in the hands of private shooting clubs or otherwise in private ownership and not available for the use of the unattached hunter; and

WHEREAS, The establishment of public shooting grounds at localities where the presence of bodies of water and other conditions are suitable for the hunting of water fowl would provide for helpful outdoor recreation of many persons to whom facilities therefor are not now available; and

WHEREAS, The establishment of such public shooting grounds would encourage persons who do not now purchase hunting licenses and special tags for the taking of migratory birds and at the same time lessen the numbers of trespassers upon posted land which is a perennial source of friction; now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the Senate of the State of California. That the Fish and Game Commission of the State of California is urged and requested to take such steps as are necessary and which it deems expedient and feasible for the establishment of public shooting grounds in such areas as will provide suitable facilities for the hunting of wild fowl by as many persons as it is possible to accommodate by such method; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate is hereby directed to transmit a copy of this resolution to each member of the Fish and Game Commission of the State of California.

Resolved, That such codes when purchased will become the property of the Senate and when the members are through with them the Sergeant-at-Arms is directed to take custody of them and store them in a safe place for future sessions of the Legislature.

Resolution read.

Communication

The following communication was presented by the Secretary of the Senate, and ordered printed in the Journal:

SENATE, CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE, January 17, 1941

MR. PRESIDENT: Pursuant to instructions given me by the Senate, I have investigated the matter of purchases of codes for use of the members.

The Journal of the Session of 1933 records the adoption of a resolution directing the Secretary to purchase eight sets of codes, six of which were to be placed in various committee rooms and two to be kept at the desk of the Senate for use of the members.

In 1935, the Secretary was directed to purchase sets of codes for such members of the Senate as felt the need thereof. Members of the Senate were interviewed and codes purchased for those who expressed themselves as needing the same.

The same procedure was followed in 1937 and 1939. In 1937, subsequent to the adoption of a resolution directing the Secretary to purchase codes, a resolution was offered by Senator Gordon and adopted, setting forth that these codes were the property of the Senate and should be retained by the Senate and stored for future use. The Secretary and the Sergeant-at-Arms subsequently stored sets of these codes in a safe place and mounted guard over them from May 28, 1937, to January 16, 1939, at which time it was discovered that a new set of codes had been published and that the old sets were obsolete. With the appearance of this new set, the old ones were declared to be valueless and no Senator was so poor as to offer them sanctuary or even lend them desk space. The last that was seen of them, the keeper of the archives was trundling them off to the catacombs in his little red wagon.

The Resolution of 1939, appearing on page 139 of the Journal of that session, directed the Secretary to purchase sets of codes for such members of the Senate as felt the need thereof, which was done.

The publishers offer the present set of 41 volumes at a price of $80 less 30 per cent, or if the Constitution is omitted, 10 volumes for $75 less 30 per cent, or a net price of $52.50 to the Senate. They advise that the codes will be shipped from San Francisco and delivered here the day following submission of the order.

Respectfully submitted,

J. A. BEEK, Secretary of the Senate.

Previous Question

Senator Seawell moved the previous question.

Motion carried.

The roll was called, and Senate Resolution No. 26 adopted by the following vote:

AYES—Senators Biggar, Breed, Brown, Carter, Cunningham, Deuel, Dellinger, Fletcher, Foley, Garrison, Hays, Jepsen, Kuebel, Luckey, Mayo, McBride, McCormack, Metzger, Mixer, Myland, Parkman, Phillips, Powers, Rich, Seawell, Swan, Swing, Tickle, Wagy, and Ward—30.

NOES—Senators Crittenden, Judah, and Slater—3.

To the Senate of the State of California

Pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 800, Statutes of California, 1917, we respectfully report that, according to advices received, certificates of title have been issued to August 1, 1940, by the registrars of land titles under the Torrens Law in 16 of the 58 counties as follows:

CALIFORNIA STATE PERSONNEL BOARD
SACRAMENTO, JUNE 9, 1941

Mr. Joseph Beck, Secretary of the Senate
State Capital, Sacramento, California

DEAR MR. BECK: Senate Resolution No. 14, adopted in the Third Extraordinary Session of the Fifty-third Legislature, on September 13, 1940, directed the State Personnel Board to investigate the administration of its report of performance system, with particular reference to the possibility of its manipulation by supervising officers, and to report its findings to the Senate during the first week of the current session.

In compliance with this resolution, the board has made such an investigation and by means of this letter presents the required report.

A certain amount of background is necessary to understand the nature and method of administration of the present report of performance plan. Prior to the creation of the State Personnel Board by Article XXIV of the State Constitution in December, 1934, a variety of report of performance plans had been in operation. Shortly after the creation of the board, a rule was adopted requiring that a report be filed once each six months covering the work of each employee, with more frequent reports to be filed in the case of probationers. At that time no change was made in the form of report of performance being used. The form most recently in use by the organization which preceded the State Personnel Board was continued in effect.

Under this old report of performance plan, a single form was used to apply to all of the 1,700 classes of employment in the State service. The form consisted of about 25 very general items, such as "reliability," "judgment," initiative," "quantity of work," "quality of work," etc., and opposite each of these qualities the reporting officer was required to indicate whether the employee under consideration was "excellent," "good," "fair," or "poor," with respect to the particular characteristic. The final step in preparing the report was the assignment by this same reporting officer of a percentage rating which in his judgment represented a fair appraisal of the employee's work.

State employment is scattered so much geographically, and the organization of many of the departments is so complex because of their size, that if these reports are to be made out in each instance by some supervising officer actually familiar with the work of the employee it is necessary to receive reports from about 3,000 reporting officers. With 3,000 reporting officers preparing reports based on somewhat vague statements of characteristics and being allowed the opportunity of a completely unguided and unstandardized expression of a percentage score, the old report plan produced gross inequities, was found to be easily subject to abuse by reporting officers, and because of the vagueness of the reports, was impossible of adequate review or investigation by the board in the event a wronged employee appealed to it.

In the general revision of the State Civil Service Act of 1937, the Legislature made more specific provisions for the necessity of filing periodic reports of performance and prescribed certain conditions with reference to the content and method of administration of such a plan.

Following these changes in the law and as a consequence of accumulated instances of inequity and discrimination under the old plan, serious study was undertaken to develop a new plan which would be a more accurate measure of the value of the work rendered by each employee and which would be less susceptible to abuse.

Several fundamental principles underlie the present report plan.

1. A separate report sheet has been developed for each different type of work which depends on a particular combination of work characteristics to measure success on the job. It is obvious that a surgeon at a State institution and a farm-hand employed at the same institution should not be judged by the same standards, and the use of different forms, each related to the duties of specific types of work, makes a careful distinction possible.

2. In place of the old vague and generalized statements of opinion upon which the report was based, there have been substituted statements in terms of specific, observable, and verifiable actions of the employee on the job. This contributes to making the report more definite and more accurate and insures the possibility of a complete and fair investigation or hearing in the event of a dispute as to the actual character of the work of the employee.

3. The requirement is made that the report should be prepared by the supervisor in the organization who is best prepared, on the basis of everyday observation, to report accurately on the employee's work. Under the old plan, the designation of supervisors to make out the report was most inadequately dealt with, with the result that many times the report was prepared by an individual who rarely, if ever, actually saw the employee in action.

4. The plan requires that the completed report be shown to the employee and that he be given an opportunity to discuss it with his supervisor. In this manner misunderstandings can be adjusted and the employee can learn at first hand about the aspects of his work in which he needs to improve himself to facilitate his advancement in the service.

To eliminate the inequities resulting from about 3,000 reporting officers each using his own standard of judgment, a plan of evaluation has been developed, based upon uniform, impartial scoring formulae which compare on a State-wide basis all persons doing like work and give proper proportionate weight to each of the factors comprising a given report. This scoring formula is developed in the offices of the State Personnel Board, is retained in the custody of the staff which administers the report of performance plan, and is applied in all cases by them. It has produced a degree of uniformity which no report of performance plan used in the previous 25 years of civil service experience in the State of California has ever produced and has not resulted in the impairment in any way of the rights or interests of any substantial group of employees.

The use of such a scoring formula does not in any sense shift the responsibility for the actual report of performance from the supervisor to the Personnel Board Office. The supervisor still is the reporter of the facts. It is his accurate description of the manner in which the employee does his work that produces the basis for scoring. The actual scoring by mathematical formula in no way substitutes for the judgment and knowledge of the supervisor that of any other person but merely provides a uniform basis for interpreting the facts supplied by a great many different supervisors working in all parts of the State.

The formula itself consists of nothing more than a series of mathematical values given to each of the facts which may possibly constitute a part of the report of any employee. When a report has been prepared, the exact mathematical value of each of the factors finally included in the report are added together and translated statistically into a percentage score.

A study of the scores produced by the old style of individual reports from departments as compared with those produced by the central scoring system reveals that much has been accomplished in equalizing the scores between departments. Where once upon a time all of the employees in some departments were rated extremely low because of the excessively strict attitude of one supervisor and where all of those in another department were rated excessively high because of the liberal point of view of another supervisor, there now has been accomplished a substantial leveling off of the grades in both places, which places them on a par. At the same time none of the rights and interests of the employee have been sacrificed as is evidenced by the fact that prior to the adoption of the present plan 97 per cent of the employees received a score of 80 per cent or better, entitling them to salary adjustments, and 96 per cent still receive reports that high under the present rating plan. Prior to the adoption of the present plan, 77 per cent of the employees received ratings of 85 per cent or better, which entitle them to eligibility for promotional examination, and under the present plan 75 per cent still are rated that high.

Under the present Civil Service Law the employee has the right of appeal to the State Personnel Board in the event the results of the report are not satisfactory. Employees are fully aware of this right of appeal and are free to exercise it whenever they feel the necessity. In the year from October 1, 1939, and September 30, 1940, approximately 50,000 reports were received and scored under the present plan. During that same time only 247 appeals were received by the board. The great majority of these appeals were concentrated in one or two State institutions where it is apparent that the cause of the difficulty was nothing inherent in the report form itself but rather a misunderstanding by the supervisors of the manner in which the report of performance system was to be applied.

Referring to the specific reference in Senate Resolution No. 14 to the possibility of manipulation of the report plan, the board is convinced that the present report of performance plan has gone far to prevent manipulation rather than to facilitate it. By taking from the numerous supervising officers the right to make an independent appraisal of the employee in such a manner that it was not subject to successful appeal, the possibilities of manipulation by that supervisor have been considerably reduced. By basing the scoring on a mathematical formula which is uniformly applied in all cases, the possibility of manipulation has been still further reduced.

There has never at any time been any evidence before the board, either produced by any employee or produced by the board's own investigation of the plan, that manipulation has been practiced. In the case of almost every appeal which has been made concerning individual ratings, it has been apparent that misunderstanding rather than deliberate manipulation has been the basis of the difficulty. The experience of members of the board serving as referee in the hearing of these appeals has convinced us that the present report is a far more satisfactory instrument from the standpoint of giving the employee a better basis for maintaining a successful appeal in the case abuse should be practiced.

There is absolutely no evidence that favorable reports prepared by supervising officers have been, or could be, processed in such a manner as to produce an unduly low score. The scoring formula, once it is established, is applied uniformly as long as the same report form is in use.

As a safeguard against any possibility of the report being altered by the supervisor after the employee has seen it but before it is referred to the Personnel Board for scoring, the board has just adopted a rule requiring that a copy of the report be given to the employee at the time he reviews it.

The foregoing report has been approved by the State Personnel Board at its meeting of January 9, 1941.

Respectfully submitted,

Amendment No. 1

"SEC. 2. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California and as such shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

At the present time when a defendant in a criminal case in an inferior court seeks probation, the law requires that in every case his application be referred to the probation officer for investigation and report, notwithstanding the fact that in view of all the circumstances and evidence in many cases the court may already be satisfied that the granting of probation is justified. Under the present law, until the probation officer's report is made to the court the defendant is frequently held in custody, in some cases for many days. This procedure has resulted in unnecessarily delaying the action of the courts, in unnecessary confinement of a defendant and in great and unnecessary expense in connection with investigations by the probation officer. It is necessary that the congestion now existing be relieved immediately in order that such unnecessary delays be avoided. It is therefore necessary that this act take effect immediately."

Amendment read and adopted.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received and read, and on motion of Senator Rich, ordered printed in the Journal:

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, January 22, 1941

*Honorable W. P. Rich, Senate Chamber
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

Subject: Building and Loan Initiative Measure

DEAR SENATOR: You ask: If the Legislature rejects this measure, may it later this session legislate on the subject? If so, is the scope of such subsequent legislation limited or restricted by or in consequence of such rejection?

This is quite different from the case of a legislative attempt to "amend" an initiative.

In our opinion, the Legislature can, after such a rejection, legislate this session on any phase of the subject unaffected by the fact of such rejection.

By that time the initiative has passed out of the hands of the Legislature, is on its way to a vote of the people; essentially no different from an initiative petition directed to the people, qualified and waiting for the election date to come around. The Legislature has never considered its hands tied in the latter situation.

Such legislative action would, of course, be subject to implied repeal (to the extent of conflict between the two measures), if and when the people approve the initiative at the polls.

Yours very truly,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

The following communications were received and read, and on motion of Senator Crittenden, ordered printed in the Journal:

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, January 21, 1941

*Honorable Bradford S. Crittenden, Senate Chamber
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

Subject: Building and Loan Initiative Measure
Request: No. 9371

DEAR SENATOR CRITTENDEN: This is in response to a certain specific question propounded, and supplements our opinion issued earlier today on the general subject.

You ask if the initiative measure is enacted within 40 days from the time it is received by the Legislature, the Legislature adjourns sine die, a period of 90 days thereafter passes and no referendum petition qualifies requiring the measure to be submitted to the people, may the measure thereafter be amended by the Legislature at any special or regular session?

In our opinion the answer is "yes," limited, of course, in respect to a special session, to the additional question whether or not the gubernatorial proclamation convening the Legislature in special session specifies this among the subjects for which convened.

This right to amend is conferred upon the Legislature by the very words of the initiative measure itself: "This act, and any or all of the provisions of said Article 17 of the Building and Loan Association Act, may be amended or repealed by the Legislature."

Additionally, upon the basis of the hypothesis expressed in your question, the Legislature would not at such future date be amending an act "adopted by the people at the polls under the initiative provisions" of Section 1 of Article IV of the State Constitution, hence presumably would have such power to amend (after this measure takes effect; that is, after the 90-day period following final adjournment of this session). This is true even if this initiative measure did not by its express terms (as it does) declare that the Legislature may amend.

The "in the future" amendatory bill discussed herein would, of course, itself be subject to referendum (like any other legislative bill) unless it happened to be of such a nature that it would fall within that group of excepted cases in which Section 1 of Article IV permitted the Legislature to put a bill into immediate effect.

Yours very truly,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

OFFICE OF LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL
SACRAMENTO, January 21, 1941

*Honorable Bradford S. Crittenden, Senate Chamber
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

Request: No. 9371

DEAR SENATOR CRITTENDEN: We beg to hand you herewith our opinion in response to your question as to the effect of amendment by the legislature of the initiative measure now pending before the Senate.

In considering the problems confronting the Senate by the initiative measure presented to it by the Secretary of State under the direction of the third paragraph of Section 1 of Article IV of our Constitution, it is important to take a view of the relevant directions and declarations of the Constitution.

We find:

First, that if acted upon, the initiative must be enacted or rejected within 40 days without change or amendment;

Second, that if enacted it is subject to referendum;

Third, if rejected or not acted upon it must be submitted to the vote of the whole people;

Fourth, if rejected and an alternative suggested, both must be submitted to the people.

Speaking generally, in our system the whole power of legislation is committed to the Legislature except only as reserved or restricted in the Constitution. By Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution the people have reserved to themselves the right to initiate laws and the right to hold up and pass upon laws passed by the Legislature. The reservation of these rights is couched in the most positive terms and no thought can be entertained that the rights were not meant to be fully and most effectively exercised. As throwing some light on the purpose of the reservations it is worthy of mention that the section reserving the rights declares that:

"No act, law or amendment to the Constitution, initiated or adopted by the people shall be subject to the veto power of the Governor."

Reflection upon the history and reason of these reservations, and a study of the language used in the Constitution, leads inevitably to the conclusion that the reserved powers must be given free play and must not be obstructed or interfered with at any stage of the process provided. "To reason otherwise," said Justice Walker of the Supreme Court of Missouri, "concerning these powers constitutes, in its final analysis, the conclusion that the creature is greater than the creator * * * It is not reasonable to conclude, in the absence of words of limitation, that the power thus reserved was intended to be other than complete. Held to be otherwise, it would fail to effect the purpose of its creation, which, as we have shown, was to lessen the limits of legislative power as theretofore possessed by the General Assembly. Of what avail would a reservation be which could be rendered futile by the act of the body from which the power has been withdrawn? To place the seal of judicial approval upon such legislative action would, in effect, render the constitutional provisions concerning the initiative and referendum nugatory * * *"
State vs. Becker, 240 S.W. 229.

In the case just cited the court distinguished between rulings limited to the amendment or repeal by the Legislature of initiated or referred acts and rulings relating to those in process of initiation or referendum, and held that removal by the Legislature of an act pending the referendum process was unauthorized and of no effect.

In the provisions reserving the power of initiative each step of the process is carefully outlined, and throughout an intention is manifest to prevent any thwarting of the popular will. Two methods are provided for transmitting an initiative measure into law. The one adopted in the instant case is the shorter, simpler and least expensive one, that is to say by asking for the concurrence of the Legislature, and providing for the steps to be taken in case that concurrence is withheld. But whether this method is adopted, or the longer, more tedious and more expensive one, the purpose is the same, namely to exercise the reserved right of legislation by the people.

We have pointed out that if this initiative is enacted it is subject to referendum and that if it is rejected or not acted upon it must be submitted to the people, and that if rejected and an alternative proposed both must be submitted to the people.

We consider the natural and inevitable conclusion to be that the initiative machinery having been set in motion in compliance with the constitutional provision "it is immune from obstructive interference from any source" until the last step of the constitutional process is completed by the people's vote, or by the failure of the people, within the 90 days allowed, to take advantage of the referendum right, as the case may be.

We are of the opinion, therefore, that the injunction to enact or repeal "without change or amendment" protects the verbal integrity of the initiative measure until the completion of the final steps in the constitutional process.

Yours very truly,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Slater:

Senate Resolution No. 32

Relative to the death of John T. "Casey" Young

Appropriately the Senate can pause for a moment to pay a tribute of respect to one of its old time attaches, John T. "Casey" Young. Mr. Young closed his Life Book rather suddenly last Saturday night in a Sacramento hospital, following many months of invalidism which, however, did not keep him entirely away from the activities of life, particularly the companionship of friends. He was buried beside his pioneer parents last Tuesday in San Francisco.

I take particular part in calling the attention of the Senate to "Casey" Young's death. He accompanied me to the Legislature 30 years ago and up to within a few years was present and employed at each succeeding session of the Senate, serving as Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms and Bookkeeper, always attentive to his duties and uniformly courteous to the members of the Senate.

"Casey" Young had a long and interesting career. In early life he was a baseball player and it was then that he was given the sobriquet of "Casey at the Bat," in addition to the other distinguished diamond star who had been similarly styled. Everybody knew him as "Casey." He was also employed in the railroad mail service and in other activities. Aside from his legislative employment, he had not been actively and constantly engaged in other work for many years. Prior to moving to Santa Rosa, he had lived in San Francisco and was active in politics. He knew the political leaders and politics of yesteryear. Several years since, he came to Sacramento to live. For years, he made his daily rounds of the State Capitol offices and greeted friends everywhere.

"Casey" Young had great pride in his pioneer ancestry and to him "Mother's Day" was an outstanding event of each year. He never ceased praising his mother and his pioneer father. He was a brother of the late Harry R. Young of San Francisco. He also took pride in his attire, his carnation wearing and his friends. He had his likes and dislikes as all humans have and he was at the same time gentle and kind and appreciated attention; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the State of California when it adjourns this twenty-third day of January, 1941, does so out of respect to the memory of John T. "Casey" Young; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be requested to forward an illuminated copy of this resolution to the bereaved relatives of our friend.

Resolution read, and unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Senate Bill No. 680

And respectfully requests your honorable body to concur in said amendments.

ARTHUR A. OHNIMUS, Chief Clerk of the Assembly

CONSIDERATION OF ASSEMBLY AMENDMENTS

Senate Bill No. 680—An act validating the formation, existence and boundaries of county water works districts and all proceedings for the issuance of bonds and all bonds heretofore issued or sold and all proceedings for the issuance of bonds heretofore had and taken by such districts, and providing for the payment of such bonds.

The question being: Shall the Senate concur in the following Assembly amendments to Senate Bill No. 680?

Amendment No. 1

In line 6 of the title of the printed bill, strike out the period, and insert " , declaring the urgency thereof, to take effect immediately."

Amendment No. 2

On page 2 of the printed bill, after line 22, insert

"SEC. 4. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety, within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution, and shall therefore go into immediate effect. The facts constituting the necessity are as follows:

Many people in this State are now either without an adequate supply of water for their domestic, fire protection and irrigation needs, or, having such supply, lack utility facilities for the distribution of such water. This act, if it becomes effective immediately, will enable county waterworks districts to rectify this situation by removing all doubt as to the validity of annexation proceedings previously taken by such districts to embrace territory the inhabitants of which are in dire need of water and water utilities that can be supplied by such districts, and as to the validity of bonds issued to enable such districts to obtain additional necessary funds for these purposes."

Motion carried.

Report of Interim Committee on Governmental Efficiency

SACRAMENTO, CALIFORNIA, January 25, 1941

Senate of the State of California

Your Committee on Governmental Efficiency has had referred to it for investigation and report the matter of the Silver Bardett language textbooks for the fourth to eighth grades, inclusive, and the matter as to whether the Senate should advise and consent to the appointments to the Board of Education of

Lois E. Souter, Los Angeles, vice Eleanor Lloyd Smith, appointment not confirmed, for the term ending January 15, 1943

Alice H. Dougherty, Oakland, vice self, term expired, for the term ending January 15, 1944

James M. Tadlock, vice Henry S. Grossman, appointment not confirmed, for the term ending January 15, 1944 and hereby submits its report as follows:

Your committee held several meetings and listened to testimony, both documentary and oral, from both sides of the controversy.

At a meeting held October 29, 1936, the State Board of Education authorized the Superintendent of Public Instruction to issue a call for bids for language textbooks, these bids to be submitted not later than December 1, 1936.

It should be borne in mind that in addition to the Board of Education, we also have a State Curriculum Commission whose apparent duty it is to formulate a set of criteria or standards of evaluating language textbooks. When this commission was created, it was the apparent purpose of the Legislature to set up a commission of professional educators for the purpose of evaluating textbooks.

Apparently, prior to the present controversy, it had been the practice to submit all textbooks to the Curriculum Commission who in turn made a survey and reported the findings and recommendations to the Board of Education. The Board of Education, being a lay-body, were concerned only with the price.

In the instant case, this practice was departed from as will more fully appear as this report progresses.

On December 30, 1936, the commission reported a set of criteria which was adopted by the board. Some time early in December of 1936, a full supply of books from various publishing companies was submitted to the commission. Apparently the commission was of the unanimous opinion that a period of at least two months would be required to make an adequate study of the textbooks submitted.

On January 8, 1937, the board scheduled a special meeting to be held on January 30, 1937, for the purpose of adopting language textbooks. The Superintendent of Public Instruction called a meeting of the State Curriculum Commission for January 22d and 23d. Although in the December meeting the superintendent had been instructed to have the Department of Education make an objective study of the textbooks submitted for adoption, he had taken no action. At its meeting on January 22d and 23d, 1937, the commission formulated a statement directed to the State Board of Education stating its reasons for being unable to make recommendations by January 30th and, in brief, asked for additional time. The State Board of Education, at its meeting on January 30th, postponed the adoption of language textbooks to February 27, 1937. Thereafter, the commission, on the basis of preliminary study on the books submitted, reported that only four of the series of 13 submitted were sufficiently in conformity with the criteria to warrant further study. The commission made its recommendation to the board at its meeting on February 27th to the effect that the series entitled "Speaking and Writing English," published by Sanborn & Co., Inc., be adopted as the California State series of textbooks for the use of grades four to eight, inclusive. Apparently they departed from the prior practice of making a recommendation on a point rating of books, but according to their report, "on a comparison of the extent to which each language textbook series submitted presents a language program the purpose and methods of which are in closest conformity with the criteria. The commission found such basic differences in the type of program and educational method embodied in the various series that the comparison point rating did not appear feasible."

In the face of this recommendation, the board, at its meeting on February 27, 1937, adopted the series entitled "Thinking, Speaking and Writing," published by the Silver-Burdett Company. As heretofore stated, this was not one of the books recommended by the Curriculum Commission and cost $181,772, while the Sanborn book, recommended by the commission, cost approximately $48,000 less, or $133,321. It should be understood that this price is not the purchase of books, but was a purchase by the State of California of the right to use the copyrighted plates, and the bid price was based upon the assumption of the royalty based on a million copies.

It should have been noted that on January 30, 1937, Dr. Lewis P. Crutcher, President of the board, recommended that the Textbook Subcommittee of the board make an investigation of the merits of the proposed text. When the board met on February 27, 1937, and immediately after they had received the report of the Curriculum Commission recommending the Sanborn book, they referred the matter to their own Textbook Subcommittee. The sub-committee ignored the report of the Curriculum Commission and with very short study, recommended that the Silver-Burdett book be adopted.

The resignation of Vierling Kersey, then Superintendent of Public Instruction, took effect on February 1, 1937, and on that date Walter F. Dexter assumed office. He apparently took steps immediately to have the Division of Textbooks and Publications make an objective study of the language textbooks submitted. Following this study and on the advice of his department, he refused to sign a contract giving as his reasons that the series of books adopted was not satisfactory in terms of the standards established by the State Curriculum Commission and that the royalty on the books published by the Silver-Burdett Company was considerably higher than the royalty asked by the Sanborn Company.

Your committee was convinced, from the testimony, that both facts were true. There can be no question about the royalty and that the books were unsatisfactory as submitted is borne out not only by testimony adduced at the hearing, but also by the fact that a committee of three educators who are being paid at the rate of $50 a month have not as yet succeeded in rewriting the book so as to make it satisfactory.

Dr. Crutcher signed the contract and delivered it to the Silver-Burdett Company. However, it still required the signature of Dr. Walter Dexter, secretary of the board.

On October 30, 1937, the board passed a resolution requesting the Superintendent of Public Instruction to withhold any further action on accepting and printing the language textbooks. On August 12, 1938, the Silver-Burdett Company commenced proceedings which ultimately resulted in the issuance of a writ of mandamus by the State Supreme Court to compel the secretary of the board to sign the contract. This was done on April 6, 1940. On the same day the board passed a resolution rescinding their action of October 30, 1937, wherein the Superintendent of Public Instruction had been ordered to withhold any further action on the accepting or printing of the Silver-Burdett book.

Prior to this time, the publisher had employed Robert Hill Lane, assistant superintendent of schools of the City of Los Angeles, and Miss Bertha E. Roberts, deputy superintendent in charge of elementary schools at San Francisco, to revise this book. This revised material was not evaluated by the Superintendent of Public Instruction and his department until after the rescinding of the board's resolution. Immediately thereafter, however, the revised material was examined and the Department of Education came to the conclusion that the revised material was satisfactory in terms of the standards formulated by the Curriculum Commission and that no amount of revision short of actual rewriting could make the book satisfactory.

At its meeting in Del Monte on July 29, 1940, the State Board of Education, pursuant to a report of its textbook committee, resolved as follows:

"Resolved, That the president of this board be and he is hereby authorized and empowered to appoint a committee of three educators to be nominated by the Textbook Committee of this board, and that when said language textbook materials shall have been revised by the Silver-Burdett Company to the satisfaction of said committee appointed as aforesaid, said committee shall notify the president and secretary of this board, and the secretary of this board upon receipt of said secretary of notice of such approval of the material for each of said books, shall thereupon and without further delay order the printing and distribution of said books as so revised."

The following committee was appointed:

Bryon O. Wilson, county superintendent of schools, Contra Costa County.
Miss Helen Rogers, member of curriculum department of the Los Angeles schools.

Mrs. Emily Leonard, teacher at Henry E. Huntington Elementary School in San Marino School District of Los Angeles County.

As heretofore stated, that committee is still laboring in an effort to revise the books to meet the standard set by the Curriculum Commission.

There has been a great deal of comment, both verbally and through the press, intimating that there was some corruption in connection with the adoption of a bid that would cost the State $48,000 more than one recommended by the commission. Your committee, however, did not find any evidence which would substantiate any such charge. Most of your committee is of the opinion that the book adopted by the board was a book not adapted to educational needs of the State of California and can be made so only after a complete revision. Its adoption would appear to have been more the result of professional jealousy between the members of the Board of Education and particularly the professional members of that board, and the members of the Curriculum Commission composed entirely of professional members. We believe that the apparent theory behind the act by which the Curriculum Commission was created was that only qualified educators should pass upon the sufficiency and adequacy of the proposed textbooks purchased from an education standpoint.

Prior to the present controversy, it was not the practice to advise the Curriculum Commission as to the price of the books prior to its evaluation. Their function was and is purely to determine the educational quality of the proposal. While the Board of Education is not by law bound to accept the recommendation of the Curriculum Commission, it would seem to be good practice to have such a body on which they could rely and to apply their business ability to the ultimate adoption of one of the proposed books.

It is the thought of your committee that it is not good practice to put professional educators on the State Board of Education. For more than four years, according to testimony, children of the State of California have been deprived of necessary language books because of the apparent unnecessary bickerings between two State agencies. If only noneducators were on the Board of Education, this unfortunate disagreement might be avoided in the future. If it is not possible to create one purely professional body to pass upon the efficiency of books and another purely lay body to pass upon other matters, then it is felt that the Curriculum Commission should either be abolished or the law be amended compelling the board to follow the recommendations of the Curriculum Commission. In the event that any series of bids were not acceptable to the board, then new bids could be called for.

With this in mind, your committee considered the names recommended for appointment. It is thought, while the board should be censured for delegating the final acceptance of the revised draft of the Burdett book to a committee composed of nonmembers of the board, there is some question in the minds of this committee as to whether or not that is a nondelegable duty. Having these things in mind, your committee of 11, with 9 members present, voted 6 to 3 to recommend that the Senate advise and consent to the appointment of James M. Tadlock as a member of the board, and by a vote of 6 to 3, recommend that the Senate do not advise and consent to the appointment of Lois E. Souter and Alice H. Dougherty as members of the board.

Respectfully submitted.

MARICOPA, CALIFORNIA, February 28, 1941

*Hon. William P. Rich, President pro tempore of the Senate,
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

DEAR BILL: Inasmuch as I will not be able to report for duty at Sacramento, Monday, March 3d, believe that it might be proper to report why I can not report.

In my youthful exuberance while celebrating my seventy-sixth birthday I put on a one-man Wild West performance (however, I assure you that this was unintentional on my part), but the two witnesses said it was fast and furious while it lasted, but did not last long enough. To this part of their statement I can not agree. The horse won.

Event No. 2—When the birds quit singing their tweet tweet, and the cobwebs cleared away, I got up, shook myself and found that I was still assembled. I concluded that the damage consisted of a shock to my dignity and a portion of my anatomy. I caught the brute and tried it again. This time I won, and gave him a two-hour workout for good measure. This I thought would give me the edge in the two events, and the third is postponed until next Summer.

Seriously speaking, I got a hard fall and was pretty badly bruised up, but I am getting along all right and expect to be with you Monday, March 10th, or at least the doctor said he might turn me loose by that time if I would be real good and stay in bed until he tells me to get up.

Kindest regards and best wishes to all.

Cordially yours,

J. I. WAGY

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

SACRAMENTO, March 4, 1941.

To the Honorable Members of the Senate and Assembly of the State of California:
State Capitol, Sacramento, California.

GREETINGS. I deem it advisable to address this communication to you regarding the manner in which the State's tax-deeded lands have been handled by the State Controller, who has the sole authority to lease properties owned by the State for delinquent taxes, and to collect part thereof and collect full amounts on such properties under the provisions of Sections 3651 to 3661 of the Revenue and Taxation Code, formerly Section 3773 of the Political Code. Some months ago at my direction the Director of Finance conducted an investigation of the system adopted by the Controller's Office of administering this law. A report of the investigation was made to the Director of Finance by the staff assigned to this investigation, which was presented to me shortly before the first of this year. In this report the question of the legality of the methods followed in handling these properties is raised, as is also the question as to whether under this method the State has been defrauded and deprived of revenues which it should have received from these properties. For instance, this preliminary report shows that tax-deeded lands in Los Angeles County were leased to one Hayden F. Jones at a nominal rental of $1 per year. Mr. Jones in turn rented these properties with the Controller's approval, making monthly reports of amounts collected, expended and retained by this nominal rental lessee acting as agent for the Controller. After deducting 25 per cent of collections as "commission" for his services as lessee-agent and making deductions for cost of repairs, purchases, refunds, etc., payments of the residue of his collections were made to the Controller's Office.

Questions as to the legal status of such a lessee or agent who was not hired in accordance with the Civil Service Laws of this State; whether the Controller may refund from the Tax-Deeded Land Rental Fund as unearned rental on redeemed property a larger amount than has been paid into the fund as rental of the redeemed property; whether he may settle accounts with this lessee-agent through offsets that effect the same results; whether the Controller may incur indebtedness for expenses of operating and repairing tax-deeded properties by procedures not subject to the provisions of the applicable sections of the Political Code, or may do so through the lessee-agent; and whether the Controller may pay a claim for damage to tax-deeded property without proceeding pursuant to Sections 688 and 667 of the Political Code through this method of settling accounts with his lessee-agent are raised in this report. Soon after the first of January of this year, I called the Attorney General into conference with the Director of Finance and his accountants and investigators of this subject, for the purpose of acquainting him with the progress of the investigation and to procure his advice upon the legal questions raised by this preliminary report. Following and pursuant to the purpose of this conference, I sent a communication to the Attorney General on February 12, 1941, a copy of which is hereto attached.

The purpose of securing the advice of the Attorney General on the legal questions raised is to assist the Director of Finance and his accountants and investigators in continuing their inquiry and determining its proper scope and the legal directions it should follow in ascertaining facts relevant and material to the right of the State to recover rental values of these tax-deeded lands of which it may have been deprived by this method of the administration of tax-deeded lands. The Department of Finance will continue its investigation in the light of legal advice from the Attorney General and make full and complete report thereof for the information of the Governor and the Legislature, which report will be duly transmitted to you.

I bring this matter to your attention at this time so that you may have it in mind in connection with any legislation which you may be considering affecting the disposition of lands deeded to the State for tax delinquencies. The preliminary report indicates that valuable properties with substantial improvements have thus been leased and subleased with low rentals, and properties thus handled have not been sold or put back on the county tax rolls, operating to the distinct disadvantage of both the State and the counties.

The problem of tax-deeded lands is a serious one which merits the attention of the Legislature, the real estate taxpayers, and the county boards of supervisors. When land is tax-deeded it is taken from the tax rolls, and the remaining real estate in the county must pay a higher rate. It is thus highly important that tax-deeded land valuable for private ownership be returned to the tax rolls at the earliest possible time. A great step in this direction was taken by the enactment of Chapter 47 of the Statutes of 1940, which will enable the State to clear the titles of tax-deeded lands so as to render them more saleable. This chapter has also set up a governmental agency for the utilization of tax-deeded lands for public purposes, and the withdrawing from sale of perennially tax-deeded lands which may be classed as wastelands.

In considering legislation for the future administration of lands deeded to the State for tax delinquencies, with a view of deriving the true rental value thereof for the State and for the counties, I recommend that their administration be placed under the State Lands Commission. I further recommend that provision be made for the leasing of these tax-deeded lands only to actual occupants for beneficial use at their fair rental values, and that subventions be made to the counties of a proper proportion of the net rentals received by the State from these properties equivalent to the amount of county and local taxes properly assessable thereto. It seems to me that such a system of handling tax-deeded lands would do away with tax dodging and speculation in tax-delinquent lands which too often prevents their acquisition by persons desiring to acquire and occupy them for homes or other beneficial uses.

Respectfully submitted.

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE
SACRAMENTO, February 12, 1941

Hon. Earl Warren, Attorney General
State Building, San Francisco, California

DEAR MR. WARREN: When the Director of Finance called my attention to a preliminary report of auditors and investigators of his department, on the manner in which tax-deeded lands have been handled by the office of the State Controller, from which it appeared that the legality of this system is questioned, and that under it the State may have been defrauded and deprived of revenues from these properties which it should have received, I deemed it advisable and proper to call you in and acquaint you with the matter so that the Department of Finance may have the benefit of your legal advice and opinions in the further course of its investigation and development of facts pertinent to the inquiry.

As you will observe, this preliminary report shows, for instance, that tax-deeded lands in Los Angeles County were leased to one Hayden F. Jones, at a minimum rental of one dollar ($1) per year. Mr. Jones in turn sublet those properties, securing the Controller's approval of principal terms, and some of the leases of other properties, and in rare instances sending copies thereof to the Controller's Office. Monthly reports of amounts collected, expended and retained by this agent in his dealing with the public, represents himself to be the agent of the Controller; are made, stating the property and rental periods to which collections pertain, deducting 25 per cent "commission" from the collections for the services of this agent, and deductions for cost of repairs, purchases, water bills, refunds, etc.

Questions as to the status of such a sublessee or agent; whether the Controller may refund from the Tax-Deeded Land Rental Fund an increased rental on redeemed property, a larger amount than has been paid into the fund as rental of the redeemed property; whether he may settle accounts with the sublessee or agent through offsets that effect the same results; whether the Controller may incur indebtedness for repairs or expenses of operating tax-deeded property by procedures not subject to the provisions of the applicable sections of the Political Code or may achieve the same result by handling transactions and settling accounts with the lessee or agent effecting the same result; and whether the Controller may pay a claim for damage to tax-deeded property without proceeding pursuant to Section 688 and Section 667 of the Political Code, through this method of settling accounts with lessee or agent are raised in this report.

In seeking to ascertain the effect of this method of handling tax-deeded lands upon their return to the tax rolls, and upon the State's General Fund, and to ascertain whether all revenues from tax-deeded properties to which the State is entitled have reached the fund, these investigators spread their survey over all types of properties and geographical locations in the State. While this preliminary report still purports to cover a portion of the properties of the tax-deeded lands leased by the Controller, it appears to be comprehensive enough to present a factual condition that not only raises the legal questions above mentioned but also the question of whether the State has not been actually defrauded of moneys which should have been derived from the leasing of these lands, considering their true rental value and the manner in which sublessees derived the benefit of their true rental value as shown in such instances as have been called to your attention.

I am writing you now to ask you to please give me your opinion on these legal questions involved in this investigation at your earliest convenience after you have analyzed the matter presented in this preliminary report and the law applicable thereto.

Thanking you for your cooperation, I remain

Very respectfully yours,

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received and read, and on motion of Senator Rich, ordered printed in the Journal, and referred to the Committee on Rules:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF THE CONTROLLER

SACRAMENTO, March 7, 1941

*To the Honorable Members of the Senate
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

GREETINGS: My attention has been directed to a communication addressed to your Honorable Body by the Governor in which reference is made to an asserted audit report concerning the State Controller's administration of tax-deeded property.

No such report has ever been submitted to me. If such a report exists, the Governor and the Director of Finance have failed to discuss it with me or to provide me with a copy as required by law.

It may be significant that the Governor in his message proposed that control of these distressed properties be handed over to a commission dominated by the Administration.

Under statutory authority the Controller is custodian of all property which unfortunate home owners and others have lost for nonpayment of taxes.

Pioneering in a difficult endeavor without sufficient appropriation, he has administered this growing volume of delinquent land for the best interests of the people of the State with these results:

Thousands of wage earners who otherwise would have been dispossessed have been enabled to retain the homes for which they struggled.

Countless business men have been assisted in redeeming property into which their life savings, their dreams and the sweat of their brows have gone.

Struggling laborers have been aided in acquiring through purchase of tax-distressed property homes for which they otherwise could not have hoped.

In three years the Controller's program has returned $7,500,000 worth of non-producing property to the tax rolls, thereby aiding cities and counties from the border of Oregon to the Mexican line. The burden on the other loyal taxpayers thus has been lightened.

A million dollars has been turned over to California's 58 counties through sales authorized by the Controller.

Rental of tax-deeded land has brought a flow of half a million dollars into the State Treasury.

The Controller's primary duty under the law is to keep custody and maintain in good repair this unfortunately huge volume of property until the financially embarrassed owner can redeem it or otherwise return it to the tax rolls.

Wherever possible such property has been rented. The bulk of it, regrettably, is worthless. To secure tenants willing to pay for use of property which over a period of many years has not produced sufficient money to even pay taxes is difficult and in many cases impossible.

The State has at all times received 100 per cent of the net proceeds from such rentals.

Prior to 1935 the Controller was not authorized to employ representatives to administer tax-deeded property.

When authorization finally was granted, no funds were available to finance such a program. As a result my predecessor, eager to properly discharge his responsibility, worked out with the cooperation of other reputable State officials a careful plan to obtain the services of recognized business men throughout the State as agents to help meet the problem.

This entire program was discussed with and approved by attorneys of the Department of Finance before it was placed in operation.

By this means the State was relieved of the expense of maintaining these many thousands of homes and millions of acres of land, a revenue began to pour into State, city and county treasuries, and a way was opened that began a large scale return of property to the tax rolls.

More than 50 per cent of the property handled by these representatives was redeemed and returned to a tax-paying basis without the representatives receiving any compensation for their work. In Los Angeles County, 70 per cent of all property thus managed was promptly redeemed.

When I became Controller, I recommended that as rapidly as possible the work of administering tax-deeded land be taken over by full time civil service employees. I had and continue to have complete faith in the integrity of the gentlemen who served the State as agents. As a matter of sound business policy, however, I insisted that money be made available to handle the job with civil service employees.

When, at last, the Department of Finance made the requested funds available, I abolished the agent representative system. For nearly a year now qualified employees chosen from the civil service lists have efficiently administered this work.

Merchants, business operators, farmers and working people who are reluctant to occupy or install equipment in tax-deeded property from which they can be evicted at any moment the record owner chooses to start a redemption plan through payment of a small portion of the delinquent taxes.

The Controller is legally unable to guarantee a tenant tenancy for a month, a week, or even a day.

In the face of this uncertainty, property obviously can not bring the same rental as healthy, productive property in which a tenant can be secure enough to make an investment.

The audit report to which the Governor referred in his message is said to mention several parcels of bankrupt property owned by the State.

If and when I am permitted to see this report, I shall be happy to make a detailed report to the Legislature upon such property. The records are and always have been open to everyone.

I assure you of my desire to be of continued service to your Honorable Body and again offer to be of all possible assistance in the conduct of this investigation which I welcome.

Respectfully,

HARRY B. RILEY, Controller

Referred to Committee on Rules.

MOTION

Senator Rich moved that a communication received from Governor Olson on March 4th, relative to tax-deeded lands, be referred to the Committee on Rules.

Motion carried.

REMARKS

Senator Slater called attention to the fact that today is the anniversary of the birth of the late Luther Burbank.

A bouquet of flowers was placed on the rostrum in remembrance of the Santa Rosa plant wizard.

2910. Practice as a trained nursing attendant or as a practical nursing attendant, within the meaning of this chapter, is the performing of nursing services other than those constituting, and not amounting to, the practice of nursing as defined in Section 2725 of the Nursing Practice Act.

2911. This chapter confers no authority to practice medicine or surgery or to undertake the prevention, treatment or cure of disease, pain, injury, deformity, or mental or physical condition in violation of any provision of law.

2912. This chapter does not prohibit:

(a) Gratuitous nursing of the sick by friends or members of the family.

(b) Incidental care of the sick by domestic servants or by persons primarily employed as housekeepers as long as they do not practice nursing within the meaning of this chapter.

(c) Domestic administration of family remedies by any person.

(d) Nursing services in case of an emergency.

2913. If he does not represent or hold himself out as a trained nursing attendant or a practical nursing attendant licensed to practice in this State and if he has an engagement, made in another State or country, requiring him to accompany and care for a patient temporarily residing in this State during the period of such engagement, an attendant legally qualified by another State or country may give trained nursing and practical nursing care to such patient in this State.

2914. This chapter does not prohibit any nursing, or the care of the sick, with or without compensation or personal profit, by the adherents of and in connection with the practice of the religious tenets of any well recognized church or denomination, so long as they do not otherwise engage in practice as a trained nursing attendant or as a practical nursing attendant.

2915. No individual shall practice as a trained nursing attendant or as a practical nursing attendant, as herein defined, without a license issued under the Nursing Practice Act, or without a license issued under this chapter.

Every licensee holding a trained nursing attendant's license issued under this chapter may be known as a "trained nursing attendant," and may place the letters "T. N. A." after his name.

Every licensee holding a practical nursing attendant's license issued under this chapter may be known as a "practical nursing attendant," and may place the letters "P. N. A." after his name.

2916. An applicant for a license as a trained nursing attendant shall comply with each of the following:

(a) Be at least 18 years of age.

(f) Have successfully completed the course of study prescribed in the next succeeding section hereof.

2917. The course of study referred to in the immediately preceding section is hereby defined as

All applicants for licenses as trained nursing attendants and all applicants for licenses as practical nursing attendants shall be given the written examination, herein provided for, simultaneously.

Not less than two months nor more than three months prior to the date of each such examinations, the board shall cause a notice of the time and place fixed therefor to be published in two or more newspapers of general circulation, and in one nursing journal, all published in this State, and selected by the board.

All such examinations shall be conducted by such persons, in such manner, and under such rules and regulations, as the board may prescribe; except that each examination shall be so arranged and conducted, that each applicant for a license as a trained nursing attendant who is not then licensed as a practical nursing attendant and who shall fail to make a passing grade for a license as a trained nursing attendant may, on the basis of the results of the same examination, make a passing grade for a license as a practical nursing attendant.

The board shall finally pass or reject all applicants; and its actions, in that respect, shall be final and conclusive and not subject to review by any court or other authority.

2922. Any applicant for a license as a trained nursing attendant who fails to make a passing grade therefor, may take the next subsequent examination for such license without payment of an additional fee.

The board shall issue a license under this chapter as a practical nursing attendant to each applicant who shall make a passing grade therefor in any such examination.

The form of each such license shall be determined by the board.

2924. A license issued hereunder to an individual not a citizen of the United States but who has declared his intention of becoming a citizen, shall terminate and become void at the end of seven years from the date of being such declaration of intention if such individual has not then become a citizen.

A license so terminated may be reissued by the board at any time thereafter upon evidence of United States citizenship and an expectation of the doing satisfactory to the board.

2925. Nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to restrict the official duties of any person engaged in the United States Public Health Service or the National Defense Program while in the discharge of such duties.

2932. The course of instruction shall consist of not less than the required number of hours of instruction in the subjects of anatomy, physiology, hygiene, diet for the sick, and obstetrics, nursing care of the sick, including children and the aged, together with the required number of hours of instruction in such other subjects in the field of nursing as the board may determine. Following such course, such practical experience as the board may prescribe.

2933. It shall be the duty of the board, through the director, to inspect all accredited schools, as defined in this chapter, at such times as the board shall deem necessary. Written reports of the director's visits shall be made to the board, which shall thereupon approve or accredited such schools as meet the requirements provided by the board.

Upon receiving the director's report, if the board determines that any accredited school is not maintaining the standard required by the board, notice thereof in writing specifying the defect or defects shall immediately be given the school. If the defects are not corrected within a reasonable time, the school may be removed from the accredited list and written notice thereof given to it.

2934. Each accredited school, as defined in this chapter, which is not also an accredited school of nursing under the Nursing Practice Act, before commencing to give to any person the course of instruction required by this chapter, or if a fee is to be charged any such person for such course of instruction then before such fee is imposed, shall deliver to each such person a written notice stating the name of the school and containing the following statement, to wit:

"THIS IS an accredited school as defined in the Trained and Practical Nursing Attendants Act, and the course of instruction you are about to be given here, if successfully completed, satisfies a necessary requirement to obtaining a license as a trained nursing attendant.

HOWEVER, this is not an accredited school of nursing as defined in the Nursing Practice Act, and the course of instruction you are about to be given here, even if successfully completed, may not necessarily be accepted by the Board of Nurse Examiners as satisfying, either in whole or in part, a prerequisite to obtaining a license under the Nursing Practice Act authorizing you to practice thereunder as a professional, registered, or graduate nurse."

Each accredited school, as defined in this chapter, which is also an accredited school of nursing under the Nursing Practice Act, before commencing to give to any person the course of instruction required by this chapter, or if a fee is to be charged any such person for such course of instruction then before such fee is imposed, shall deliver to each such person a written notice stating the name of the school and containing one of the two following statements as instructed by the board, to wit:

"THIS IS an accredited school as defined in the Trained and Practical Nursing Attendants Act, and is also an accredited school of nursing as defined in the Nursing Practice Act.

The course of instruction you are about to be given here, if successfully completed, satisfies a necessary requirement to obtaining a license as a trained nursing attendant.

This course of instruction is also a part of the more extensive course of instruction prescribed by the Nursing Practice Act as a prerequisite to obtaining a license thereunder authorizing you to practice as a professional, registered, or graduate nurse, and to that extent, if successfully completed, will be accepted as partial completion of the more extensive course of instruction."

OR

"THIS IS an accredited school as defined in the Trained and Practical Nursing Attendants Act, and is also an accredited school of nursing as defined in the Nursing Practice Act.

The course of instruction you are about to be given here, if successfully completed, satisfies a necessary requirement to obtaining a license as a trained nursing attendant.

This course of instruction is not, however, a part of a different course of instruction prescribed by the Nursing Practice Act as a prerequisite to obtaining a license thereunder authorizing you to practice as a professional, registered, or graduate nurse, and, therefore, even if successfully completed, may not necessarily be accepted as a partial completion of said other course of instruction."

2935. None of the provisions of this chapter shall be applicable to any school or schools conducted by any well recognized church or denomination for the purpose of training the adherents of such church or denomination in the care of the sick in accordance with its religious tenets.

Article 4. Disciplinary Proceedings

2940. Every licensee under this chapter may be disciplined as provided in this article.

No disciplinary action shall be taken against any licensee until the board follows the procedure provided in this article.

2941. On the filing at any office of the board of a sworn complaint charging any person with having committed any act or acts specified herein as for disciplinary action, the director shall forthwith issue a citation in the name of the board.

The director shall file a sworn complaint when directed by the board so to do, or may do so of his own volition.

All citations shall be made returnable at a meeting of the board occurring no earlier than thirty (30) days after the filing of the complaint.

2942. The citation shall notify the person named in the complaint that he has been accused of an act or acts amounting to a ground or grounds for disciplinary action, when and where a hearing before the board will be had thereon, and that he shall file his verified written answer to such complaint within twenty (20) days next after the service upon him of such citation or that his default will be entered and that disciplinary action may be taken against him as therein provided for.

The citation shall be served personally upon the person accused in the complaint and at the time of such service shall have attached to it a true and correct copy of the sworn complaint upon which such citation was issued.

2943. The attendance and the production of books and records at the hearing may be compelled, on behalf of the prosecution and also on behalf of the defense, by subpoenas issued by the director in the name of the board.

All citations and subpoenas shall be served in accordance with law. All provisions of law relating to subpoenas and to citations are applicable to the subpoenas and citations provided for in this article.

2944. If any person refuses to obey a subpoena issued as provided in this article, the director shall certify the fact thereof to the superior court of the county in which the service of the subpoena was made. The court shall thereupon proceed to hear the matter in accordance with the laws concerning contempt for disobedience of process of court and, if the court finds that the subpoena has been legally served and the person subpoenaed has wilfully disobeyed it, the court shall proceed in the manner provided as for a contempt of court.

2945. In all proceedings under this article, depositions of witnesses may be taken as in civil causes and all the provisions of law concerning the taking of depositions are applicable to the taking of depositions under this article.

2946. If the person so accused fails to file his verified answer with the board within twenty (20) days after the service of the citation upon him, or within such further time as the board may allow, and the complaint on its face is deemed sufficient by the board, his default shall be entered and disciplinary action taken against him as herein provided for.

2947. If the complaint on its face is deemed sufficient by the board, and issue is joined by the answer, the board shall determine the matter and to that end shall hear such evidence as may be adduced before it.

In the conduct of such hearing, the board is not bound by the common law or statutory rules of evidence or procedure, but may make inquiry in any manner, through oral and written testimony and evidence, which is best calculated to ascertain the substantial rights of the person accused and the public.

If after the conclusion of any such hearing it appears to the satisfaction of the board that the person accused is guilty of any act or acts as a ground for disciplinary action, and charged in the complaint, disciplinary action shall be taken against him as herein provided for.

2948. The board shall discipline any licensee whose default has been entered, or who has been found guilty by the board after the conclusion of the hearing provided for in this article, by any of the following methods:

- (a) Suspending judgment;
- (b) Placing him upon probation;
- (c) Suspending his right to practice under any license issued to him under this chapter for a period not exceeding one (1) year;
- (d) Revoking any license issued to him under this chapter;
- (e) Taking such other action in relation to disciplining him as the board in its discretion may deem proper.

2949. Any licensee whose license to practice under this chapter has been suspended, shall not be entitled to practice as a trained nursing attendant or as a practical nursing attendant during the term of suspension.

Upon the expiration of the term of suspension, he shall be re-entitled by the board and shall be entitled to resume his practice in accordance with the conditions of the license theretofore suspended.

2950. Any of the following acts is a ground for disciplinary action against any licensee:

Any person taking such an examination shall first pay the fee required therefor.

Explanation of Vote

I am in entire sympathy with the purpose of Senate Bill No. 180. I am opposed to sabotage at any time, in time of peace and in time of war. But in my opinion Senate Bill No. 180 leaves room for propaganda for the hard won and new universal peace and rights of man. National defense is impossible if labor's rights are not safeguarded. For this reason I can not conscientiously support Senate Bill No. 180 without amendments correcting its defects.

820.5. The department may enter into agreements with the authorized officers of the United States for the performance of such street or highway construction or improvement projects, including the acquisition of necessary rights of way therefor, for military streets or highways, including but not restricted to access and arterial highways, regardless of whether or not such military highways are within the State Highway System. As to any project not on the State Highway System, such agreement must provide for complete reimbursement to the department, except for general administrative and engineering charges.

As to any such military street or highway, the department and the California Highway Commission are, and each of them is, authorized to do any and all things in connection therewith as may be done with reference to the State highways. The commission may adopt resolutions authorizing construction of property necessary for such highways with like effect as it may with reference to State highways. All provisions of this article shall apply to any work done by the department under any such agreement.

In the event any act of Congress so provides, the department may acquire title to any property necessary for such military facilities in the name of the United States, and on behalf of the United States may commence and prosecute eminent domain proceedings in the appropriate Federal courts.

If desired by the United States, title to any real property or interest therein acquired by the department in connection with any military street or highway which is not a part of the State Highway System may be transferred to the United States or any agency thereof by a conveyance executed on behalf of the State of California by the Director of Public Works. Such conveyance shall only be made if the State has been fully reimbursed for any expenditures made in connection with the acquisition of such property or interest thereon. Upon completion of the construction of any military highway which is not a State Highway, it shall, promptly, be turned over to the United States for maintenance and control if the Federal States will accept the same. If the United States will not accept the maintenance and control thereof, such highway shall become a city street or county highway, as the case may be, upon the passage by the commission of a resolution to that effect.

Sec. 3. Section 822 of the Streets and Highways Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

822. The department is authorized to do any and all acts and things with reference to any military or public street or highway or, or to be constructed in this State necessary to the performance of any such agreement, including but not limited to the construction or improvement of streets, highways or roads which are not a part of the State Highway System.

Sec. 4. Section 823 of the Streets and Highways Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

823. In addition to the purposes for which the moneys in, and to be received in, the State Highway Fund and the State Highway General Fund have been appropriated, all of said moneys, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated to, and may be expended by the department for, the performance of such street or highway construction or improvement projects as are agreed upon with the properly authorized officers of the United States (including projects on public or military highways in the State of California which are not a part of the State Highway System). As to such projects on streets or highways which are not a part of the State Highway System, such expenditures shall be limited to those items for which the Government of the United States has agreed and is obligated to reimburse the State in full, except that the general administrative and engineering expense for which the Federal Government will not repay the State is primarily chargeable to the general administration of the Division of Highways.

Sec. 5. This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure, necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution. The facts constituting such urgency are as follows:

This Nation is at this time engaged in a large program of National defense. Included in such program are many projects of a military nature within the State of California and it is necessary that adequate highway facilities be immediately constructed to serve such projects and to facilitate the movement of personnel and supplies throughout the State of California. The United States has indicated that a large share of the actual acquisition and construction of such highways should be done by the State highway departments of the various States and it is therefore necessary that this act take immediate effect to assure that adequate highway facilities can be made available as soon as possible to meet the defense needs.

RESOLUTIONS

The following resolution was offered:

By Senator Fletcher:

Senate Resolution No. 58

Relative to memorializing and petitioning Congress to enact adequate legislation to regulate the presentation of radio programs dealing with crime

WHEREAS, During the past few years radio stations throughout the Nation have been broadcasting, without discretion or restraint, programs romanticizing the nefarious exploits of criminals; and

WHEREAS, These broadcasts are swaying many persons of impressionable, tender, and immature minds to emulate the deeds of the characters they portray, inciting them to crime and general moral disintegration; and

WHEREAS, The Government of the United States has no effective legislation entitling it to supervise, regulate or control these programs, and the several States themselves are powerless to act in that respect; and

WHEREAS, Proper legislation by the Congress of the United States would have a salutary effect and would tend to raise the quality and moral tone of these presentations; and

WHEREAS, The protection and welfare of the public now demands that the United States of America extend its legislation to this field; now therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Senate of the State of California hereby memorializes and petitions the Congress of the United States to enact adequate legislation for the regulation of radio programs dealing with crime; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be forwarded by the Secretary of the Senate to the President of the United States, the Vice President of the United States, the Speaker of the House of Representatives of the United States, to the members of the Federal Communications Commission, and to each of the Senators and Congressmen from California in the Congress of the United States; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senators and Congressmen from California in the Congress of the United States are hereby respectfully requested to urge such legislation.

Resolution read, and referred to Committee on Rules.

No. 5

INTRODUCED BY SENATOR HUEHMAN

FEBRUARY 17, 1941

Rules suspended, reading as far as amended time reading, same further suspended, read second time by title and referred to the Committee on Public Highways.

SENATE JOINT RESOLUTION

Memorializing the legislature of the State of California to hasten passage of state route 24 in California state highway program for completion at an early date.

WHEREAS, Two decades ago, when a movement first in creating a trans-continental route for highway travel was being formulated throughout the Nation, the residents of Nevada and California, being neighbors, are more interested in the movement, and as a result of such correspondence between the officials of both states regarding the location of such proposed and potential routes connecting the states, a meeting was arranged between California officials headed by the then Governor of that state, the Hon. William D. Stephens, and a group of others representing the interests of Nevada, and

WHEREAS, After studying the possibility of various suggested routes, Governor Stephens gave his consent to a route designed to connect the primary trans-continental route passing through the city of Reno in Nevada with a secondary highway from that point to a connection with the Sacramento valley and coastal route, and declared that it was that the State of Nevada had completed the Nevada part to the extent it would be put upon an adequate connecting in California; and

WHEREAS, Since the date of that original agreement such transportation Nevada has found it necessary to complete such a route, and later to reconstruct it to a higher standard, while the State of California has neglected thus far from constructing such a connection. In the interim, across the lowest elevation of the Sierra range, and the section between Humboldt station on U. S. route 395 and Redwood City, there is now about 24 miles to be run on the old alignment built as a wagon road by pioneer days by Lassen County, in that state, and which is regarded as both dangerous and unsatisfactory in the light of present day standards, therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate and Assembly of the State of Nevada, That the legislature of the State of California be memorialized to hasten the proposed portion of the state route 24, to complete the project of an being dangerous and inadequate, in the California state highway program for completion at an early date, to the end that the agreement entered into in 1921 between them be carried out and for the best interests of the residents of both states; and be it further

Resolved, That duly certified copies of this resolution be promptly forwarded by the secretary of state to the governor of the State of California, to the president of the California senate, to the speaker of the assembly, and to the board of supervisors of Plumas County, California.

E. P. CARVILLE, Governor

THE COUNCIL OF STATE GOVERNMENTS
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS, March 12, 1941

*Hon. Ellis F. Patterson, Lieutenant Governor
State Capitol, Sacramento, California*

MY DEAR GOVERNOR: As you know, the elimination of barriers to interstate trade has been a major activity of the Council of State Governments for the past three years. With this objective in mind, the council called the National Conference on Interstate Trade Barriers which met in Chicago, April 5-7, 1939. Since that time by holding individual State conferences, by correspondence, and by field visits, the council and the Commissions on Interstate Cooperation have continued to work with Governors and State Legislators in an effort to bring about the elimination of interstate trade barriers.

We are writing to urge that you consider bills before your Legislature in the light of their possible effect on interstate commerce and that you call those provisions, which constitute trade barriers, to the attention of the members of your State Legislature in order that they may be defeated.

It would also be very helpful if you would bring about the repeal of existing trade barriers which have been called to the attention of your Legislature.

Your cooperation in this program will be very helpful.

With kindest personal regards, I am,

Very sincerely,

FRANK BANE, Executive Director

This act is hereby declared to be an urgency measure necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety within the meaning of Section 1 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, and as such shall take effect immediately. The following is a statement of the facts constituting such necessity:

The present time is a period during which unusually high percentages are being received by the State of California. Under the provisions of the act relating to this title heretofore, the State Treasurer may not deposit State funds in banks in excess of the paid-up capital exclusive of surplus of any depository bank. Large banks throughout the State already have deposits of State funds up to the amount of their capital, and in consequence large sums of State money remain undeposited. By the adoption of this act, the State Treasurer would be permitted to increase these deposits in active accounts in excess of the paid-up capital, but not in excess of the capital and surplus of depository banks. It is, therefore, necessary that this act take immediate effect in order that large sums of money may be so deposited."

Amendment No. 4

On page 5 of the printed bill, between lines 42 and 43, insert:

"(10) The gain or loss realized from the sale or other disposition (after February 28, 1913) of property by a corporation for the purpose of the computation of earnings and profits of the corporation for any period beginning after February 28, 1913, shall be determined by using as the adjusted basis the adjusted basis (under the law applicable to the year in which the sale or other disposition was made) for determining gain or loss as realized; such increase or decrease in the earnings and profits to, but not beyond, the extent to which such sale or realized gain or loss was recognized in computing net income under the law applicable to the year in which such sale or disposition was made. Where in determining the adjusted basis used in computing such realized gain or loss the adjustment to the basis differs from the adjustment provided for the purpose of determining earnings or profits, then the latter adjustment shall be used in determining the increase or decrease above provided."

Where a corporation receives (after February 28, 1913) a distribution from a second corporation which (under the law applicable to the year in which the distribution was made) was not a taxable dividend to the shareholders of the second corporation, the amount of such distribution shall not increase the earnings and profits of the first corporation in the following cases:

(A) No such increase shall be made in respect of the part of such distribution which (under such law) is correctly applied in reduction of the basis of the stock in respect of which the distribution was made.

(B) No such increase shall be made if (under such law) the distribution ceases the basis of the stock in respect of which the distribution was made to be allocated between such stock and the property received. For the purposes of this subdivision, the words "law applicable to the year" shall be deemed to refer to the act or the United States Revenue Act in force for the year in which the sale or other disposition was made.

(11) (A) If any increase or decrease in the earnings or profits for any period beginning after February 28, 1913, with respect to any matter would be different had the adjusted basis of the property involved been determined without regard to its March 1, 1913, value, then, except as provided in Paragraph (B), an increase (properly reflecting such difference) shall be made in that part of the earnings and profits consisting of increase in value of property received before March 1, 1913.

(B) If the application of Subdivision (10) to a sale or other disposition after February 28, 1913, results in a loss which is to be applied in decrease of earnings and profits for any period beginning after February 28, 1913, then, notwithstanding Subdivision (10) and in lieu of the rule provided in Paragraph (A) of this subdivision, the amount of such loss so to be applied shall be reduced by the amount, if any, by which the adjusted basis of the property used in determining the loss, exceeds the adjusted basis computed without regard to the value of the property on March 1, 1913, and if such amount so applied in reduction of the decrease exceeds such loss, the excess over such loss shall increase that part of the earnings and profits consisting of increase in value of property accrued before March 1, 1913."

[At any time after assessments are due, and before the date when the last installment becomes delinquent, any person, firm or corporation claiming an interest in any lot, piece, parcel or fractional part of land, which lot, piece, parcel or fractional part of land does not have a separate valuation on the assessment roll, may have such lot, piece, parcel or fractional part of land segregated and separately valued on said roll in the manner hereinafter set out.

Each applicant for segregation shall file with the officer then having custody of the assessment roll an application for segregation, and pay to the district with said application a fee of fifty cents ($0.50) for each separate parcel into which the land subject to the original assessment is to be divided. Such officer shall forthwith submit the description of said lot, piece, parcel or fractional part of land, together with the proposed segregation to the assessor, who must place a separate valuation on each of the proposed segregations. The aggregate amount of assessed valuation of the parcels so segregated shall remain the same as before such segregation. The assessor must transmit such valuations to the officer then having custody of the assessment roll, who shall cause a description of the property, together with separate valuations, to be entered on the assessment roll, and compute and extend the assessment and penalties, if any, and cancel the original description, valuation, and assessment and penalties, if any. Thereafter, assessments, including proportionate accrued penalties, if any, on each segregated lot, piece, parcel or fractional part, may be paid separately from the whole assessment.]

Any person, firm, or corporation claiming an interest in any parcel of land described on the current assessment book against which there are no delinquent assessments, desiring to have the parcel segregated into two or more portions and separately valued and assessed on the current assessment book, may:

(a) File with the collector of the district at any time after the current assessment is due but not later than five days prior to the regular meeting of the board of directors in December of the year in which the assessment was levied, an application with descriptions, sufficient for assessment purposes, of each portion into which the applicant desires the parcel to be segregated, valued, and assessed. Such application must be signed by each of the persons assessed on the current assessment book with the parcel to be segregated, as evidence of their approval.

(b) Accompany such application with a fee of fifty cents ($0.50) for each separate portion into which the applicant desires the parcel to be segregated.

If the portions into which the applicant desires the land to be segregated have separate valuations shown on the current assessment book, the collector shall upon such valuations estimate the amount of the current assessment due on each portion.

If the portions into which the applicant desires the land to be segregated do not have separate valuations shown on the current assessment book the collector shall submit the descriptions to the assessor who shall place a valuation on each described portion. Upon such valuations the collector shall estimate the amount of the current assessment due on each portion as segregated.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received and read, and on motion of Senator Phillips, ordered printed in the Journal:

RIVERSIDE, CALIFORNIA, March 21, 1941

Senator John Phillips, State Senate, Sacramento, California

Housewives of Riverside have banded together because a secondary boycott now in force here is threatening to cut off the milk supply of this city. The Teamsters Union is attempting to force a closed shop contract on all creameries in this area. The first creamery to refuse because their employees are satisfied and do not wish to join the union have been declared unfair and the union has placed secondary picket lines around the grocery stores and cafes at which we have been buying. We are determined that no racketeering union leaders shall come into our community and cut off the milk supply with a secondary boycott in order to gain job control and collect dues and enforce a closed shop which, together with demands for wage increases, would raise the price of milk without any consideration of the rights of the producer, the merchant, or the families which must have milk for their children. We ask you, as our legislative representative, to bring this matter to the attention of the entire Legislature and we ask you to do anything in your power to stop these invasions of the rights of California families who must have milk for their children.

COMMUNICATIONS

The following communication was received and read, and on motion of Senator Garrison, ordered printed in the Journal:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

SACRAMENTO, March 24, 1941

Honorable J. C. Garrison, Senate Chamber

State Capital, Sacramento, California

SUBJECT: Senate Bill No. 877—Limitation on agricultural products and employees

REQUEST: No. 1470

DEAR SENATOR GARRISON: We enclose herewith amendments to Senate Bill No. 877 as amended in the Senate March 7, 1941, limiting the operations of agricultural products and employers of agricultural labor.

The amendments are based upon the objections of persons engaged in agricultural employments in Labor Code Sections 4250 and 4251, and are in the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, Wage and Hour Laws, Sections 1 and 7.

Assuming the constitutionality of a prohibition of secondary boycotts and refusal to handle "hot" cargo, two theories exist which a limitation of the prohibition to agricultural labor disputes and to agricultural products might be essential to:

(a) That these products, being of an essentially perishable nature, must move without interruption through the usual channels of trade in order to insure their ultimate consumption with as little waste as possible in order to avoid spoiling.

(b) On account of their intimate connection with the well-being of the population and in order to prevent widespread ill health, if not starvation and want, a continuous and uninterrupted supply of agricultural products must be insured to the people of the State.

We have therefore drawn up the amendments so as to include perishable products, but not nonperishable products such as timber.

Very truly yours,

FRED B. WOOD, Legislative Counsel
By C. A. WILKINER, Assistant Counsel

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, GOVERNOR'S OFFICE

Sacramento, March 26, 1941

To the Honorable Members of the Senate
Sacramento, California

GREETINGS

ASSEMBLY BILL NO. 253

"An act to add Section 1.5 to the Unemployment Relief Appropriation Act of 1940, and to amend Section 4 of the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935, and to add Section 8.5 to the California Unemployment Relief Act of 1935, relating to the relief of hardship and pecuniary loss to and caused by unemployment and the administration thereof, providing means and means upon which such relief may be granted, making an appropriation therefor, declaring the urgency thereof", in my opinion constitutes an emergency bill within the meaning of that term as used in Section 34 of Article IV of the Constitution of the State of California, the enactment of which should not await final enactment of the Budget Bill.

I therefore recommend consideration of Assembly Bill No. 253 as an emergency measure. However, I must advise you that the appropriation of $2,042,000 provided by this bill in its present form is insufficient to meet the emergency provided. Available information as to the extreme increase, rate of rising prices, widespread seasonal decrease and other pertinent factors give some indication that the appropriation now required to cover unemployment relief funds for the fourth quarter of the current fiscal year should be $4,617,000 in addition to the unexpended balance which may be carried forward under the bill to the next quarter, out of appropriations heretofore made, which is estimated at $1,100,000. In other words, the appropriation specified in this bill of only $2,042,000 is less than one-half of the additional amount required for the needs of unemployment relief during this quarter period according to present estimates made by the Relief Administration and the Department of Finance on a factual basis, unless (which it should be the intent of the Legislature to reduce the relief burdens by more than one-half during that period). Thus I would unalterably oppose. If the Legislature goes on to appropriate only the sum of $2,042,000, I shall advise the Relief Administration to continue relief payments without change in standards of eligibility and at present budgetary levels which will almost certainly make an additional appropriation necessary before the end of the biennium.

I recommend, however, that Section 1.5 of Assembly Bill No. 253 be amended by striking out the words and figures "two million forty-two thousand dollars ($2,042,000)" and inserting in lieu thereof "four million six hundred seventeen thousand dollars ($4,617,000)".

Respectfully submitted,

CULBERT L. OLSON, Governor of California

Amendment No. 2

On page 1 of the printed bill, strike out lines 3 to 26, inclusive; and strike out all of page 2, and insert

"Sec. 13.21. When the property, business and assets of an association are in the possession of the commissioner, whether or not such association is in liquidation under the provisions of this act, investment certificate holders and unsecured creditors of such association may withdraw to themselves or to a corporation nominated by them assets of such association upon the approval of the superior court after notice given and hearing held in the manner hereafter provided in this section.

A. Procedure. The holders of at least 15 per cent in value of the aggregate outstanding investment certificates of an association, the business, property and assets of which are in the possession of the commissioner, together with any unsecured creditors of such association then desiring to join with them, may themselves, or through a corporation nominated by and representing them, petition the superior court of the county in which the principal office of such association is situated to exchange their investment certificates and unsecured creditors' claims for their proportionate share of the assets of such association. If such association shall have commenced the proceeding provided for by Section 13.12 of this act and no judgment which shall have become final shall have been rendered therein against such association, or if the time within which such association may commence said proceeding has not expired, the consent of such association by its board of directors to the filing of such petition shall be required. Such petition, among other things, shall set forth, in general terms, the method by which the withdrawal of assets is to be accomplished, the interests to be acquired by investors and unsecured creditors should said petition be granted, and whether a corporation is to acquire such assets, and if so, such petition shall also set forth the kind or kinds of securities to be issued by such corporation and the classes of persons to whom such securities are proposed to be issued. A copy of said petition shall be served upon the commissioner or one of his deputies prior to the filing thereof or within three days after the filing thereof. Upon the filing of said petition the court shall fix the time and place for the hearing of such petition and shall direct that the commissioner shall give at least 30 days' notice of the time and place for such hearing by first class mail in sealed envelopes postage prepaid addressed to each investor and creditor of such association at his address as shown by the books of such association in the possession of the commissioner, or if no address be there shown, to his last known address; and that notice thereof be posted by the commissioner in three public places in said county not less than 30 days before the day fixed for such hearing and that notice thereof be published by the commissioner at least once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in said county. Such mailing and the first of such publications shall be made at least 30 days before the date fixed for such hearing, and the term of such notice shall be approved by order of the court, which order may be made without notice. The commissioner shall cause such notice to be mailed, posted and published in the manner and at the times herein specified. Section 8.08 of this act shall not apply to such notices. The petitioner or petitioners shall be furnished by the commissioner, as promptly as reasonably possible after the service of a copy of the petition upon the commissioner or one of his deputies, with a list setting forth the name and last known address of each investor and unsecured creditor of such association as shown upon the books of such association in the possession of the commissioner, and the petitioner or petitioners or their nominee may request other investors and unsecured creditors of such association to join in said petition; provided, however, that no such request shall be mailed to any investors or unsecured creditors of such association unless the same thereof shall have first been approved by order of the court, which order may be made without notice.

B. Investors and Creditors desiring to file.—Investors and unsecured creditors of such association not represented by the petitioner or petitioner at the time of the filing of such petition may join with and be represented by the petitioner or petitioner by filing with the court, either directly or through the commission or petitioners, a written consent to join in such petition, and thereupon this petition and unsecured creditors shall be deemed to have joined in such petition.

C. Hearing.—At such hearing all interested parties may appear and be heard and the commissioner may appear and be represented by the Attorney General of the State of California or by such other agent of his department and the court. Such hearing shall be, among other things, upon the validity of the terms and conditions of the issuance of or securing to be issued pursuant to such petition and of the exchange thereof for investment certificates, shares or property, or partly in such exchange and partly for cash, and all persons in whom it is proposed to issue securities in such exchange shall have the right to appear at such hearing. Upon such hearing the court shall determine the propriety of the total or partial withdrawal of such association which is proposed by such petition or of the issuance of such group of assets of such association, which shall have been submitted by the court by the petitioner or petitioner at or before the time of such hearing and at such time or times thereafter as the court shall permit. For the purpose of this Section 1321 any property of such association which is proposed to be withdrawn shall be valued at its net equity value and all of the assets of such association shall be valued on the basis of their fair reasonably ascertainable value. In the event of withdrawal the orderly and proper conduct of the business of the association shall be maintained. Thereupon the petitioner or petitioners shall file with the court a declaration of the particular assets or groups of assets of such association which the petitioner or petitioners desire to withdraw in exchange for the investment certificates and unsecured creditors' claims, specifying the securities to be issued in exchange for such property, and thereupon the court shall determine whether such proposed withdrawal is fair both to the withdrawing and to the withdrawing certificate holders and creditors, and if the court shall determine that such withdrawal is fair, its order shall grant such petition. No petition for withdrawal of assets shall be granted by the court unless the court is satisfied that the proposed withdrawal of assets in exchange for investment certificates and unsecured creditors' claims is fair both to the withdrawing and to the withdrawing certificate holders and creditors. In such determination the court shall give due consideration to the nature and circumstances affecting particular assets or groups of assets.

D. Stockholders.—Any corporation which is the owner of assets of such association may, subject to the provisions of this Subsection D, issue securities to the shareholders and/or stockholders of such association in exchange for their outstanding shares, stock, claims or property interests in partly in such exchange and partly for cash, provided the issuance of such securities is approved by the court and by the petitioner or petitioners, and provided further, that such securities shall contain express provision that no interest dividends or other distributions shall be paid or made thereon in cash and until such withdrawing assets have been sold as securities issued in exchange for claims of investment certificates, shares and claims of unsecured creditors. If an assessment shall have been levied against the stockholders of such association pursuant to Article 7 of this act, such assessment shall be set aside or discharged (1) if the court shall determine that such association is solvent; or (2) if the stockholders of such association shall pay the amount of such assessment on which case a part of such assessment which shall bear the same proportion to the whole of such assessment as the fair value of the assets withdrawn bears to the total net value of all the assets of the association shall be paid to the withdrawing certificate holders and creditors or their nominee and the remainder of such assessment shall be paid to the commissioner; or (3) the stockholder or stockholders shall transfer and assign to the withdrawing certificate holders and unsecured creditors or their nominee and to the commissioner, respectively, in the respective proportions aforesaid, all of the assets of such stockholder or stockholders in excess of amounts required to discharge the liabilities, and encumbrances against the assets of such stockholder or stockholders, other than securities or the right to issue securities of a corporation which is to acquire the assets of such association. In no case shall securities be issued in exchange for such stockholder against whom an assessment has been levied pursuant to Article 7 of this act unless and until such assessment has been set aside or discharged as aforesaid provided.

E. Authority of Filings.—Any executor, administrator, guardian or trustee and any trustee of any kind or nature and any insurance company, cemetery association or other corporation, public or private, may, without the necessity of obtaining any specific court approval (a) file or join in a petition under this section; (b) exchange any shares, stock, investment certificates, creditors' claims or other claims or property interests for any securities issued pursuant to such petition and the approval of court thereof, and (c) may continue to hold as a legal investment any securities received pursuant to such petition and the approval of court thereof.

F. Effect of Order. After the completion of such hearing the court shall have jurisdiction to approve such petition or to disapprove such petition, or may approve such petition as amended, and shall have authority to approve or disapprove the terms and conditions of the issuance of securities in exchange for outstanding securities, claims, or property interests, or partly in such exchange and partly for cash. If such petition or amended petition is approved, the court shall order the commissioner to deliver to the petitioner or petitioners or to a corporation nominated by them the assets selected by the petitioner or petitioners and approved by the court; and upon the delivery of said assets to the petitioner or petitioners or to such corporation in exchange for investment certificates and/or unsecured creditors' claims in compliance with the order of court, the powers of the commissioner with respect to said assets shall terminate and such association and the State of California shall be forthwith released from all further liabilities with respect to the assets thus withdrawn. The order of court approving such petition, amended petition or supplemental petition, shall be binding upon the commissioner, such association and all investors and creditors of such association. The powers and duties of the commissioner and the rights of all investors and unsecured creditors as to the assets of such association not withdrawn hereunder shall not be affected by this section.

G. Supplemental Petitions. After the approval of such petition and the withdrawal of assets thereunder, the petitioner or petitioners or the corporation to which the assets are withdrawn from time to time may file a supplemental petition in said court for the withdrawal of additional assets in exchange for additional investment certificates and/or unsecured creditors' claims. Thereupon such supplemental petition shall be set for hearing and notice of such hearing shall be given as provided in Subsection A of this Section 13.21. At the hearing on such supplemental petition the court shall order the additional assets withdrawn if it determines that such proposed withdrawal is fair both to the petitioner or petitioners or said corporation on the one hand and to the nonwithdrawing certificate holders and creditors on the other hand.

H. Securities Issued. The term "securities" as used in this Section 13.21 shall include not only stock of one or more classes issuable by corporations generally but also bonds, notes, debentures, warrants or evidences of indebtedness or of beneficial interest or of any other claims or rights. None of the provisions of the Corporate Securities Act shall apply to any securities issued pursuant to any such petition or supplemental petition; provided, the issuance of such securities is approved by the court after such hearing and notice as herein provided, except that brokers as defined in the Corporate Securities Act shall be subject to the provisions of said act with respect to all transactions involving such securities. None of the provisions of an act entitled, "An act requiring individuals, as in said act defined, to obtain a certificate from the Commissioner of Corporations prior to soliciting, receiving or collecting contributions, fees or funds from security owners or holders for the purpose of protecting, enforcing or representing the rights of such security owners or holders; authorizing the Commissioner of Corporations to regulate and supervise the solicitation, collection and application of such funds; and providing for the enforcement of said act and penalties for the violation thereof," approved July 1, 1937, shall apply to the solicitation by the petitioner or petitioners of the investors and creditors of such association to join with said petition.

I. Expenses of Commissioner. There shall be paid by the association directly affected by such petition or from the assets of such association the expenses of the commissioner in any proceeding under this section for any or all of the following purposes and no others: Fees and expenses of the commissioner's counsel, reporters' fees, witness' fees and expenses, court costs, costs of mailing, posting and publishing notice of hearing, and other expenses incident to presenting the commissioner's views to the court, provided such expenses shall be approved by the court as reasonable and proper.

SEC. 2. The Legislature hereby declares that this act is enacted in the exercise of the police powers of this State for the following reasons:

Approximately two hundred million dollars ($200,000,000) is invested in building and loan associations in this State and such investments are held by several hundred thousand people, a large percentage of whom are persons of only moderate means and many of whom are executors, administrators, guardians, receivers, trustees, insurance companies and cemetery associations. Many of the funds of such associations were invested in long-term loans secured by real property. By reason of the recent depression, with resulting widespread unemployment and decline in rental and sales values, many borrowers from such associations were unable to meet their obligations to such associations. By reason of defaults of such borrowers, many associations have suffered heavy losses, both in income and in net worth. In the absence of this act liquidation of assets of a value of many millions of dollars would be necessary. Such liquidation would impose severe hardships not only upon the borrowers and investors like and trust the public generally, the building a healthy decline in real estate values and a consequent pressure on the institutions.

A. Definitions of “Plan” and “creditor.” The term “plan” and “plan of reorganization” as used in this Section 13.16b are hereby defined to mean a plan for the rehabilitation, readjustment or reorganization, consolidation or merger of such association, or of all or of any part of the business, properties and assets of such association, or for the readjustment, modification or reorganization of the rights or interests of any or all of the investors and creditors of such association, or for any one or more of the foregoing purposes. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, a plan may provide in respect of all or any part of the business, properties and assets of such association for any one or more of the following: (1) for the retention thereof by, or (if then in the possession of the commissioner) the return thereof to, such association; (2) the retention thereof by, or (if not then in the possession of the commissioner) the delivery thereof to the commissioner; (3) the transfer thereof to another corporation or to two or more other corporations (which corporation or corporations or any of them may but need not be an association or associations or a Federal savings and loan association or associations); (4) the transfer thereof to a trustee or trustees; (5) the issuance of new securities of one or more of the kinds mentioned in Subsection G of this Section 13.16b in lieu of outstanding investment certificates, shares, stock or other obligations of such association. In addition or as an alternative to the foregoing the plan may provide that such association shall cease to be an association but shall continue to exist as the same corporate entity, and in the event such plan is approved by the court as hereinafter provided and becomes operative, such association shall become a corporation subject to the General Corporation Law of this State, and thereafter its rights, duties and privileges and all questions relating to such corporation shall be governed and determined by such General Corporation Law and not by this act, except that this Section 13.16b shall continue to apply to such corporation in all matters relating to such plan or the consummation of such plan, and except that such corporation's name shall be changed so that it shall no longer include any of the following: "building and loan," "building loan," "association," "saving" or "savings." Any new association formed, pursuant to a plan, to continue the building and loan business of an existing association, may adopt and continue to use the name of such existing association or any part of such name.

The terms "creditor" or "creditors," as used in this Section 13.16b, shall include the holder or holders of claims of whatever character against an association or its property, whether secured or unsecured, liquidated or unliquidated, fixed or contingent, except shares, stock or investment certificates.

B. Procedure. Such plan shall be presented by the proposer or proposers to the superior court of the county in which such association maintained its principal office, with a petition that the court determine the fairness of such plan and that there are obtained the approvals requisite to such plan becoming operative, which petition shall set forth such plan and the fact that it is proposed by a person or persons authorized under this Section 13.16b to propose it and any other facts which such proposer or proposers shall deem material to a consideration of the fairness of such plan. Thereupon the court shall fix the time and place for the hearing of such petition and the period for filing consents or dissents to the plan and shall direct that notice of such hearing, with a copy or summary of such plan and a statement as to the filing of consents or dissents thereto, shall be mailed, posted and published, all as hereafter in this paragraph provided, and shall direct the commissioner to deliver to such proposer or proposers a list of the names and addresses of the investors and creditors of such association as shown by the records of such association, and such other information as the court may deem necessary or proper, whereupon the commissioner shall comply with such direction. Thereafter the proposer or proposers of such plan, not less than 30 days before the date fixed for such hearing, shall mail or cause to be mailed to each of the investors and creditors of such association (and to such association, if not the proposer or proposers of such plan) a notice of the time and place fixed by the court for such hearing and either a copy of such plan or a summary thereof, and a statement that all persons affected by such plan shall file with the court (or with a person or corporation approved by the court and named in such notice) either their consents or their dissents to such a plan, within such period (which shall not be less than 30 days from the date of such mailing) as the court shall have prescribed. The court may from time to time extend such period. The forms of such notice and statement, and if the plan is summarized, of the summary thereof, shall be approved by the court. Section 8.08 of this act shall not apply to such notices. Said notices, plan or summary thereof, and statement shall be mailed, by first-class mail in sealed envelopes, postage prepaid, to the respective addresses as shown on such list or lists, or if no address be there shown, to the last known address. In addition, the proposer or proposers of such plan shall cause a copy of such notice, plan or summary thereof, and statement to be posted in three public places in said county not less than 30 days before the day fixed for such hearing and to be published at least once a week for three successive weeks in a newspaper of general circulation published in said county, the first publication to be at least 30 days before the day fixed for such hearing.

C. Hearing. At the time and place fixed for such hearing, or at the time and place to which such hearing may be continued by the court, the court shall hear the parties interested therein and, if it deem it necessary, may take testimony relative thereto and or may receive depositions relative thereto. Such hearing shall be, among other things, upon the fairness of the terms and conditions of the issuance of all securities to be issued pursuant to such plan and of the exchange thereof for outstanding securities, claims or property interests, or partly in such exchange and partly for cash, and all persons to whom it is proposed to issue securities in such exchange shall have the right to appear at such hearing.

At such hearing any interested stockholder, shareholder, certificate holder or creditor shall have the right, without the necessity of formal intervention, to appear either in support of the plan or in opposition thereto or may propose a modification or modifications of any plan then before the court. No plan shall be approved by the court unless the court is satisfied that the plan is fair and equitable and does not discriminate in favor of any class of investors or creditors, and is feasible.

After the completion of such hearing the court shall approve, modify or disapprove such plan. No such plan shall become operative unless and until it shall have been approved, in its original form or if modified, to its modified form, by any court, nor unless and until such plan shall have been consented to, either in person or by a duly appointed agent, attorney or committee by the following persons: (a) if such association shall have stock outstanding, then by the holders of a majority in amount of the stock of such association; (b) if such association shall have shares outstanding, then by the holders of a majority in value of the shares of such association; (c) if such association shall have investment certificates outstanding, then by the holders of two-thirds in value of the investment certificates of such association; and (d) if such association shall have creditors, then by the holders in amount of each class of creditors of such association, provided, however, that such consents shall not be required in the case of any creditor whose claim against or creditor, or of any class of certificate holders, shareholders or creditors, if (1) the rights of such person or persons shall not be materially and adversely affected by such plan or (2) if such plan shall provide for the payment to him of the value of the investment certificates, shares or claims held by such person or persons, provided further, that it may with a court's approval be waived by the court and (1) if the court shall find that such modification does not materially and adversely affect the interests of any particular person or persons, the consent of persons shall not be required to such modification and (2) persons in any classes who shall have consented to the plan prior to the court's approval of its modification shall be deemed to have consented to the plan as modified and (3) if the court shall find that such modification does not materially and adversely affect the interests of any particular person or persons, the consent to the plan is required, notice of such modification may be given to each class or classes of persons in such manner as the court shall direct and any person who shall have consented to the plan prior to the court's approval of its modification and who shall not have a written consent to such modification within the time fixed by the court shall be deemed to have consented to the plan as modified unless such person appears in court in the time shall have provided otherwise, and provided further, that in case the court shall otherwise require by clause two above it shall be sufficient if the person or persons on and posting having been made as provided in Subsection C of this Section 13.16b a copy of the notice of hearing, plan or modification, and the consents or dissents as to the filing of consents or dissents, and the period fixed or extended by the court, pursuant to said Subsection B of this Section 13.16b, of the consents or dissents having expired, and said consents or dissents shall be deemed to be the consents of persons who shall not file dissents to the plan within the period fixed by the court shall be deemed to have consented to the plan, (1) the holders of less than one-third in value of the investment certificates of such association having investment certificates outstanding shall have filed consents to the plan and (2) the holders of less than one-third in value of the investment certificates of such association shall have filed consents to the plan shall have been filed in or on behalf of a majority in value of the investment certificates of such association. For the purpose of this Section 13.16b, real property, contracts for the sale of real property, loans, and all other assets (whether now or in the future) shall be deemed at what may reasonably be expected to be realized liquidated in the event of proper conduct of a going business and under normal conditions. The consents required by this Subsection C may be given before the court is presented to the court, or after such presentation and before the court has rendered the plan, or after such approval; and the court may in its discretion fix the period and may from time to time extend the period within which consents shall be given, and proof thereof made to the court. If in the case such plan is modified by the court the proportions above required of two-thirds and creditors shall not have consented to the plan, the order of court may provide that upon settlement and proof of the fact that such consents have been given, a further order may be entered ex parte providing that such plan shall become operative which further order shall be binding upon the commissioner, such association, and all its creditors and creditors.

During the pendency of a proceeding under this Section 13.12 hearing upon any application under Section 13.12 shall be stayed, and the court in which the proceeding under this Section 13.16b is pending is hereby given jurisdiction to continue the pendency of the proceeding and, if a plan is approved, to enjoin thereafter, the commencement or continuance of any action or proceeding against such association or any act, action or proceeding to enforce a lien or charge, title or to profit, possession of, or to sell or otherwise dispose of (except in conformity with such plan), any property of such association, and to determine all questions mentioned in the foregoing pursuant to this Section 13.16b including, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the following: Whether any plan, either in its original or modified form is fair and equitable; whether a discrimination in favor of any class of investors or creditors; whether it is feasible; whether the plan is more advantageous than liquidation from the standpoint of each class of investors and creditors thereof; whether the terms and conditions of the proposed association and exchange of securities thereunder are fair and if so, to approve or disapprove such terms and conditions; the liabilities of such association; the approvals requisite under this Section 13.16b to such plan becoming operative, including jurisdiction to determine, for the purposes of the plan and the consents or dissents thereto, the division of the investors and creditors into classes according to the nature of their respective rights and interests. In any such plan the court shall give due consideration to the rights and interests of all persons affected thereby (with due regard to the feasibility of such plan and the condition of such association), in the following order of priorities: First, secured creditors; second, investment certificate holders and unsecured creditors, without preference to one over the other, except and to the extent that the court shall deem such preference fair and equitable in view of all the facts and circumstances; third, shareholders; and fourth, stockholders; provided, however, that provision may be made in any such plan for the payment in full of all taxes, assessments, insurance, alterations, repairs and other operating expenses, and for the payment of expenses in connection with such plan as allowed by the court; provided further, that in the case of any association of which the property, business and assets are in the possession of the commissioner which shows a net profit from and after the effective date of this section, the court shall require as a condition of approval of any such plan that there be added, pro rata, or in such equitable manner as the court may determine, to the claims of the investment certificate holders and shareholders of such association, as interest and dividends on such investment certificates and shares, an amount which may equal such net profits of such association, but shall in no event exceed a sum equal to the total interest and dividends at the rate of 4 per cent per year on all such claims from the effective date of this section up to the date of approval of the plan by the court, less the amount of any interest or dividends actually paid or credited on such investment certificates and shares in respect of the period from and after the effective date of this section. No plan which provides for the issuance of securities to holders of stock shall be approved by the court unless such securities contain express provision that no interest, dividends or other distribution shall be paid or made thereon unless and until all securities issued in exchange for claims of investment certificate holders, claims of unsecured creditors and claims of shareholders, if any, have been retired. Provision may be made in any plan for the payment in cash in full of all certificate holders, shareholders and creditors each of whose investment certificates, shares or claims is of such value, not to exceed twenty-five dollars ($25), as shall be specified in such plan; and if such provision is made, all investment certificates, shares and claims to be paid in cash pursuant to such provision shall be excluded in computing the consents required or given under this Subsection C.

If the court shall approve a plan of reorganization, either in its original form or in modified form, the court may allow reasonable compensation for services rendered, and reimbursements for proper costs and expenses incurred by the persons who were the proposer or proposers of such plan and their attorneys. In fixing such allowance the court shall give consideration only to the services which contributed to the plan approved by the court, or to the refusal of the court's approval of a different plan or plans, or which were beneficial in the proceedings under this Section 13.16b, and to the proper costs and expenses incidental thereto.

D. Commissioner. The proposer or proposers of a plan shall deliver a copy thereof to the commissioner or to one of his deputies either before the petition referred to in Subsection B of this Section 13.16b shall have been filed in court or within two days thereafter. In any proceeding under this Section 13.16b the commissioner shall if requested by the court, and may upon his own motion, file a notice of his appearance in such proceeding. Upon the filing of such a notice the commissioner shall be deemed to be a party in interest, with the right to be heard on all matters arising in such proceeding, and shall be deemed to have intervened in respect of all matters in such proceeding with the same force and effect as if a petition for that purpose had been allowed by the court; but the commissioner may not appeal or file any petition for appeal or review. There shall be paid by the association directly affected by a proposed plan, or from the assets of such association, the expenses of the commissioner under this Section 13.16b, for any or all of the following purposes and no others: fees and expenses of the commissioner's counsel, reporters' fees, witness fees and expenses, court costs, and other expenses of the commissioner incident to presenting to the court his views with respect to any plan or plans proposed under this Section 13.16b; provided such expenses shall be approved by the court as reasonable and proper.

F. Effect of Appeal and Consents. When any plan under this Section 13.16b shall have been so approved by the court and shall have been consented to by or on behalf of the respective required parties, and if the business and assets of such plan shall be binding upon the commissioner, such associations and all the members and creditors of such associations, and such associations and all such members and creditors shall be conclusively deemed to have consented to all of the terms and conditions of such plan whether or not any of such persons shall actually have assented thereto and whether or not all of them shall have assented to all of such plan, or of such hearing as hereinafter provided. Therefore, such plan shall be binding by the commissioner, such associations and all other persons affected by such plan, and all costs shall be borne, all compensation received and all corporate taxes, as may be required by such plan so approved, and as may be necessary or desirable for the consummation of such plan. The association, the individuals, or such person as the court shall appoint, shall supervise and direct the consummation of the plan, subject to the orders of the court.

The commissioner shall have and may exercise the same jurisdiction, including and powers with respect to such business, properties and assets deemed by or determined to the commissioner pursuant to this act and if the commissioner shall have said respect to the business, properties and assets of any association of which the commissioner has taken possession, and the commissioner shall have and may exercise the same jurisdiction, authority and powers with respect to any association possessing a Federal savings and loan association's funds, properties or real plans, or plan to which any business, properties or assets may be received or assigned or transferred pursuant to any plan, excepting a Federal savings and loan association or an association which, pursuant to the plan, it is being found an appropriate for the commissioner would have of such association if it had been found to have approved its business, properties and assets by means other than a plan.

If any part of the business, properties and assets may be delivered or transferred to a corporation which is not to be an association, the court may contain such provisions, if any, as the court shall deem wise for the continuing examination or supervision of such corporation.

F. Appeals. No appeal from an order of the superior court approving a plan shall be effectual for any purpose, unless made, within ten days after the date of such order the appellant or appellants shall file with the court of such court a bond executed on the part of the appellant or appellants by at least two sureties to the effect that the appellant or appellants, in and for the costs, damages, interest, and expenses, will pay all of respondents' costs, expenses and attorneys' attorneys' fees arising from such appeal. The form and amount of such bond and two conditions therein shall be approved by the superior court. Appeals from orders concerning other shall be given preference in hearing or appeal over all other appeals, except business election cases and cases in which the parties of the State are parties.

Except as otherwise provided by this Section 13.16b, the provisions of Part 2 of the Code of Civil Procedure are applicable to and shall govern the course of practice in the proceedings mentioned in this Section 13.16b with regard to appeals.

G. Securities Issued Under Plan. The term "securities" as used in this Section 13.16b shall include not only shares, stock and investment securities as used by associations under other provisions of this act but also shares in Federal savings and loan associations and stock or shares in other business concerns by corporations generally, and also bonds, notes, debentures, mortgages, or securities of individuals or of beneficial interest or of any other nature or kind. An association may issue pursuant to a plan approved under this Section 13.16b, and for any consideration specified in such plan, any one or more of the above mentioned kinds of securities, regardless of any provisions of this act to the contrary. None of the provisions of the Corporate Securities Act shall apply to any securities issued pursuant to such plan approved under this Section 13.16b whether or not such securities are issued by an association, except that brokers, as defined in the Corporate Securities Act, shall be subject to the provisions of that act with respect to all transactions involving such securities. None of the provisions of an act entitled "An act respecting individuals, as in said act defined, to obtain a certificate from the Commissioner of Corporations prior to soliciting, receiving or collecting contributions, fees or taxes from security owners or holders for the purpose of protecting, enforcing or representing the rights of such security owners or holders; authorizing the Commissioner of Corporations to regulate and supervise the solicitation, collection and application of such funds; and providing for the enforcement of said act and penalties for the violation thereof," approved July 1, 1937, shall apply to the proposer or proposers of a plan which has been duly presented to the court pursuant to this Section 13.16b.

H. Authority of Fiduciaries. Any executor, administrator, guardian or receiver, and any trustee of any kind or nature, and any insurance company, cemetery association or other corporations, public or private, may, without the necessity of obtaining any specific court approval: (a) consent to any plan which has been approved by the court pursuant to Subsection C of this Section 13.16b, or consent to any such plan subject to such plan being approved by the court; (b) exchange any shares, stock, investment certificates or other rights or claims, for securities issued pursuant to any plan which has been approved by the court; and (c) continue to hold as a legal investment any securities received pursuant to any plan approved by the court.

SEC. 2. The Legislature hereby declares that this act is enacted in the exercise of the police powers of this State, for the following reasons: Approximately two hundred million dollars ($200,000,000) is invested in building and loan associations in this State and such investments are held by several hundred thousand people, a large percentage of whom are persons of only moderate means and many of whom are executors, administrators, guardians, receivers, trustees, insurance companies and cemetery associations. Many of the funds of such associations were invested in long-term loans secured by real property. By reason of the recent depression, with resulting widespread unemployment and decline in rental and sales values, many borrowers from such associations were unable to meet their obligations to such associations. By reason of defaults of such borrowers, many associations have suffered heavy losses, both in income and in net worth. In the absence of this act liquidation of assets of a value of many millions of dollars would be necessary. Such liquidation would impose severe hardships not only upon the borrowers and investors but also upon the public generally, by causing a marked decline in real estate values and a marked increase in tax delinquencies."
